LONDON AIR-MAIL LETTER

The Historical And Architectural Monuments Of London:

Mr. G. L. Harrison's Secret Visit To Europe: The

Ranee Of Sarawak And The London Hospital:

Big Ben In Action Again: Umpires At

Wimbledon: Prince's Visit To Rugby

School

(From Our Own Correspondent)

London, July 4.
The elasticity of procedure in the House of Lords enables Lord Russell to-day to raise a question which has not been discussed in the Commons.

In moving that the historical and architectural monuments of London are matters of national and not solely municipal interest and should be so regarded, Lord Russell is affirming a principle followed in other countries.

I do not think that either Signor Mussolini or M. Doumergue would take a similar view to that of Mr. Baldwin, who stated in the House of Commons that the question of the competency of the London County Council as the bridges authority in their own area was not his business.

The French Government exercises control over practically all municipal matters in Paris through the Prefect of the Seine. One of the Duke's major interests is the beautifying of Rome.

Lord Russell, who has lately written a book on Rome of the Renaissance and To-day, is not likely to overlook the example of the concern shown by the Italian Government for the monuments of the capital.

HEAD OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANK

Doubtless Mr. G. L. Harrison will be able to shroud his present visit to Europe in the same secrecy as has attended his previous visits. Like Mr. Montagu Norman, the President of the Federal Reserve Bank does not talk at large.

On the other hand, to the bankers in Europe who occupy positions analogous to his own, he is said to be anything but secretive. He has on several recent occasions intervened effectively in international finance.

He and Mr. Montagu Norman—who is sixteen years his senior—are old friends. It was said that President Roosevelt had to intervene last August to check their joint effort at stabilising the pound and the dollar.

But Mr. Harrison did not say so. His stock reply to the American "newshawks" is: "I have no comment to make."

THE RANEE OF SARAWAK

The Ranee of Sarawak will receive the guests at the garden party that is to be held on Saturday afternoon at the South London Hospital for Women, Clapham Common. For the sake of the patients who want to see a Ranee in full dress she has promised to wear her ceremonial costume of sarong, gilt jacket, and embroidered veil. There is to be a concert at five o'clock and a dance in the evening. The hospital needs $25,000 for maintenance each year and hopes to collect some of it on Saturday.

BIG BEN RINGS AGAIN

The star performer on the wireless to-night was Big Ben, which struck the chimes and hours for the first time since the end of April, though the Clock Tower is still in splints and will remain in that invalid state till the end of the week. The clockmakers who had charge of the work, including the turning of the bells, are well pleased, not only with the finished job but with the conditions in which they found the clock, which had not been touched since it was first placed into position.

With the exception of Big Ben, however, the bells had all to be given a quarter-turn, so that the clappers will now be striking virgin metal. The bolts holding the bells, too, had all become thin with rust, and had to be replaced. It is not known at the moment what is the cost of repairing the clock but the shifting of the bells and the examination and repairs to their hanging structure, which occupied six men for the best part of two months, will cost something like £280.

When the clock, after its spring cleaning and repairs, was tested the other day it varied from Greenwich time just under one and a half seconds in its first twenty-four hours. Those who missed the sound of the great, shattering chimes during their two months' silence will be pleased to hear that, unless an earthquake occurs, Big Ben is not likely to be silenced for repairs again until 1944.

THE WIMBLEDON UMPIRE

A question that often occurs to eager spectators at the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships is how does one become an umpire and so get so good a view of the game? The answer is that the Wimbledon umpire (who is unpaid) is selected from a body of men some of whom are in the Umpires' Association and others out of it—all men of experience and powerful voice. In return for their services they get their lunch and tea and their seat. Their duty is not so very arduous in responsibility, for at Wimbledon there are linesmen watching each line, elsewhere, of course, the umpire does give "Out" or "In." They attend two matches a day, either as umpire or linesman.

But umpires are a race unto themselves and they like their job. One man when asked just why he umpired so much replied, "Well, I just love being in authority over famous players." That may be the reason or one of them. Apart from its apparent monotony it is an easy way in which to catch cold, on all but the finest days, perched up so high and never moving for hours. This may account for some of the recent Wimbledon casualties among the umpires.

THE PRINCE LUNCHES WITH BOYS OF RUGBY SCHOOL

The Prince of Wales visited Rugby School to-day. He flew from London to Coventry Aerodrome, and from there finished the journey by car. The visit was wholly informal. The Prince wore a light grey flannel suit and straw boater with a red carnation buttonhole.

He was greeted by the Headmaster, Mr. P. H. B. Lyon, and lunched in Hall with the Head and the 83 boys of School House, sitting at the High Table in the oak-panelled room.

In School Close the Prince saw a memorial plaque to Webb Ellis, the Rugby schoolboy who by picking up the ball and running with it during a football match introduced the game of Rugby football to the world.

The Prince went into the study once occupied by Dr. Hughes, the author of "Tom Brown's School-days."

Another Mae West

"Mary, why did you turn in your examination paper and sign your answers 'Mae West' instead of using your proper name?" asked the teacher.

"Because, I done 'em wrong," replied sagacious Mary.

Homely Hints?

Faded Articles can be bleached white with a solution made of 1 tablespoonful borax to 1 gallon of water. Dissolve the borax in 1 quart of boiling water. Add 1 quart of cold water. Dip the discoloured articles in this solution and lay them on the grass in the sun. When dry, repeat the process if necessary.

Kitchen Tables should be scrubbed as follows. Sprinkle the table with sand and powdered bath-brick. Scrub with soap, the way of the grain until all dirt is removed. Rinse with clear water and wipe with a clean cloth. Set in the sun to dry, otherwise it may become mildewed.

Pincushions stuffed with dried coffee grounds will prevent your needles and pins becoming rusty in monsoon weather.

Fly Spots or other marks on glass windows may be removed with a wad of newspaper moistened with methylated spirit.

Lead Pipes that have become blocked can generally be cleared by pouring a strong solution of concentrated lye down them. The lye will dissolve hair, lint and indeed all animal and most vegetable matters.

In Wet Weather boots and shoes will last much longer if the soles are given an occasional coat of linseed oil and if a little milk is always smeared on the uppers before cleaning.

Pockets of men's cloth suits should be finished with chamfers leather inside so that collars and other heavy articles do not wear holes and escape.

YOUR EYES

Puffs and dark circles under the eyes usually result from lack of sleep, eye strain or ill-health. The first thing to be done in eradicating them is to discover the exact cause, and to correct it. Every woman should obtain at least eight hours of sleep every night. It is weariness and fatigue that make the eyes look old and tired. Rest will do more to make the eyes look bright and young than anything.

Too much sleep, however, can also cause dark rings under the eyes. If you are afflicted with such puffs and circles, just try two weeks of honest regularity. Get sufficient, but not too much sleep, spend plenty of time in the sunshine and fresh air, exercise to stimulate your circulation and eat regularly and carefully. Then see whether your eyes don't look better!

Astringent Lotions For The Face

Astringent lotions are usually applied after a face massage, or after the face has been "steamed" with hot towels, and if proposed to go out, afterwards in the open air. Such lotions should be sprinkled on absorbent cotton wool and gently dabbed on the skin to close the pores.

A home-made lotion is prepared by dissolving powdered alum in water, or by mixing distilled extract of witch hazel with glycerine and eau-de-Cologne. Here is one which may be made up quite cheaply:—

Distilled Extract of witch Hazel 3 ounces.
Glycerine, 2 teaspoonful.
Eau-de-Cologne, 1 ounce.
Rose water to make up to 6 ounces.

There is nothing difficult about this, and it may be made at home, as required. A six ounce bottle, prepared by yourself, should not cost more than of benzoin used in its place. Mix the used but a better class preparation is usually preferred, and this would send the price of the lotion up to two shillings.

For those who have a greasy skin, the glycerine should be left out and half a teaspoonful of simple tincture of benzoin used in its place. Mix the tincture with the eau-de-Cologne, and add this a little at a time, to the distilled extract of witch hazel, shaking gently after each addition. Finally make up to six ounces with the Rose water.

If you prefer to use alum dissolve half a teaspoonful of powdered alum in four ounces of Rose water, and one ounce of eau-de-Cologne, and fill up an eight-ounce bottle with tap water, preferably boiled and cooled.

Eye strain, too, may cause dark circles and puffs under the eyes. Consequently, the eyes should be rested frequently during the day. And when there is a condition of chronic eye strain, a competent oculist should be consulted. If you do obtain sufficient sleep each night, and you do not unduly strain your eyes, you should consult a competent physician. Kidney trouble, heart trouble and other internal disorders may cause the appearance of the puffs or dark circles. And until the exact cause of these eye disorders is discovered and corrected, it is well-nigh impossible to eradicate them.

Up-to-the-Minute Make-Up

To make absolutely certain that the different tones of your make-up are just as they should be, you must be certain about your foundation.

The first essential for that is internal treatment. That consists of eating plenty of fresh green vegetables, fresh fruit, plenty of fruit drinks, abstinence from rich fattening and highly spiced food.

Externally, you must keep your skin well fed by massaging with a skin food daily; and also by the use of a mild stimulant.

Getting The Right Effect

For the actual make-up itself, the use of a little skin food (a thin film evenly spread over) is a good plan. You can make your skin food into a lovely and useful foundation cream by tinting it yourself with a little of your rouge.

Liquid powder properly applied helps to keep the smooth matte look, which is an essential of really successful make-up.

The following is a successful method to follow. Smooth on a little nourishing cream, then apply your liquid powder with a soft sponge, and allow it to dry; then put on your rouge just where it should be, and lastly apply your powder, using your fingers to finish off its smooth velvetiness.

Don't Forget Soap and Water

When you remove your powder first take it off with a piece of clean cotton wool; next use your cleansing lotion or cream.

If, before you re-powder, you can wipe the face over with a cotton wool pad soaked in rose water or ordinary distilled water so much the better.

Skin which has to be made up a good deal should have a soap and water wash only once a day; at other times use some rose water, or a tonic lotion.

Lemon Cheese

When eggs and butter are cheap the housewife may replenish her stock of lemon cheese, for which sealed in jars it will keep good for a long time. The following is an excellent recipe. Put the juice of two lemons and the rind of one, with two ounces of butters and half a pound of lump sugar, into a saucepan. When dissolved add two eggs well beaten and stir well until the mixture thickens. This quantity can be doubled.

Frozen Desserts

Southern Favourite Cream

1 quart milk
1 cup sugar
2 cups cream whipped
4 eggs beaten well
4 tablespoons sour
1 packet of gelatine
1 teaspoon vanilla or almond
Few grains salt.

Add eggs to milk, combine with flour and sugar. Cook until mixture coats a spoon (double boiler). Add gelatine soaked 5 minutes in 1 cup cold water. Stir until dissolved. Cool. Add salt and flavouring. Chill. Fold in whipped cream. Freeze in double-depth tray 1 hour at No. 8. (Gibson's Refrigerator). Stir mixture, finish freezing at No. 4 or 5 or freeze over night at No. 1. May be turned out and sliced.

Vanilla Ice Cream

2 cups milk
3 or 4 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipped cream
1 tablespoon vanilla
Few grains salt.

Scald milk pour over beaten egg yolks and sugar. Cook in double boiler until creamy thick. Chill; fold in whipped cream salt and vanilla. Freeze.

For Chocolate variation. Melt 2 squares bitter chocolate in a little of the hot milk over hot water. when thoroughly blended with milk combine with sugar, egg yolks and scalded milk and continue as for vanilla. Omit 1 or 2 egg yolks optional. Requires no stirring if followed closely.

Children's Special Frozen Delight

2 cups milk, scalded
1 cup sugar
2 eggs separated
2 teaspoons flour
1 cup cream, whipped
2 teaspoons gelatine
1 cup cold milk
2 teaspoons vanilla (or 1 1/2 teaspoon almond) Pinch of salt.

Soak gelatine 5 minutes in cold milk. Add to scalded milk in double boiler. Add sugar, flour, salt, and 2 beaten egg yolks. Cook until like a custard (about 10 minutes—) stir often. Chill. Fold in 2 beaten egg-whites, fold in whipped cream, add flavouring. Freeze. Beat with fork occasionally if convenient easily assimilated by children.

Chocolate variations. Four level tablespoons cocoa added to the sugar and flour.

Tyrolenne. Fill the grilled halves with roughly chopped tomato and garnish with a pile of fried onion rings at each end of the dish.

Végé-pre. This is the same as en brochette, save that it demands the presence of watercress and straw potatoes as well.

Excuse for Using Ice

A most refreshing drink on a smaller scale, is a "Silver Fizz". Mix together a tablespoonful of sugar, a good dash of lemon juice, the white of an egg, and a wineglassful of gin. Divide this between two tumblers, half fill them with crushed ice, and fill up with soda water.

SIMPLIFIED MUSHROOM DISHES

Although always considered a delicacy, mushrooms are not obtainable at all times in all markets, and they frequently are considered difficult to prepare. For these reasons recipes requiring mushrooms often are discarded in favour of others. Here is good news, however. You now can have any number of flavoured, delicious mushroom dishes with the least possible effort. The secret is this—use Cream of Mushroom Soup, not only as a delicious, nourishing ready-to-serve soup, but also as the basis for mushroom sauces and seasonings. If a sauce is desired, thicken the soup with a small amount of butter and flour, and the result is a delicious mushroom sauce, containing chopped mushrooms; if a mushroom flavor is desired in meat dishes, smother or fricassee your meats in the Cream of Mushroom Soup. Below are several recipes for these simplified mushroom dishes:

Mushroom Steak-Cut 1 1/2 pounds beefsteak (round) or veal steak, into servings. Dip into 1 cup flour seasoned with 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Fry until brown in butter, turning frequently. Pour 1 one 1-lb. can of Cream of Mushroom Soup over meat, cover and continue cooking very slowly, or bake in a marmarite oven (375°F.) for 30 minutes. The flour from the browned meat thickens the soup so that a rich mushroom sauce is formed.

Mushroom and Rice Casserole—Mix 2 cups cooked rice and 2 cups diced, left-over meat (veal, pork, lamb, or beef), and place in a buttered casserole. Pour one 10-ounce can of Cream of Mushroom Soup over the top and bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven (375°F.). During last ten minutes sprinkle with grated cheese or buttered Rice Flakes or crumbs. Let cheese melt or crumbs brown and serve.

Chicken Roll With Mushroom Sauce—Prepare a rich baking powder biscuit dough, using 2 tablespoons more shortening than for regular biscuits. Mix together 1 1/2 cups cold cooked chicken, veal or pork, minced very fine, 1/2 teaspoon scraped onion, 1 cup minced Stuffed Spanish Olives and a dash of paprika. Roll dough to 1/4 inch in thickness and spread with the chicken mixture. Roll up and bake in a hot oven (425°F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve with Mushroom Sauce made as follows: Melt 2 tablespoons butter, fry egg-yolk, the whole being garnished with straw potatoes and watercress.

Louis Châlonze. Arrange the grilled kidneys on slices of grilled ham, garnish with watercress and thick fried potatoes.

Japonaise. One kidney, half is garnished with roughly-chopped tomato and the other with a

MUSHROOMS

Full use can be made of mushrooms now that they are in season. One of the most delicious ways of using them is to season the mushrooms, toss them in butter over a low heat until the butter is absorbed and the mushrooms soft; then add enough cream to cover them, and simmer slowly for a further five minutes. Tinned cream serves the purpose excellently, or milk thickened with cornflour can be used. Another equally simple but appetizing dish, which is substantial enough for a light lunch or supper, is to cover the bottom of a greased pie-dish thickly with breadcrumbs, cover these with a sliced, skinned tomatoes, then one of sliced mushrooms. Fill up the dish like this, having breadcrumbs at the top and seasoning well between each layer. Cover the top with pieces of butter, using about an ounce, and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour.

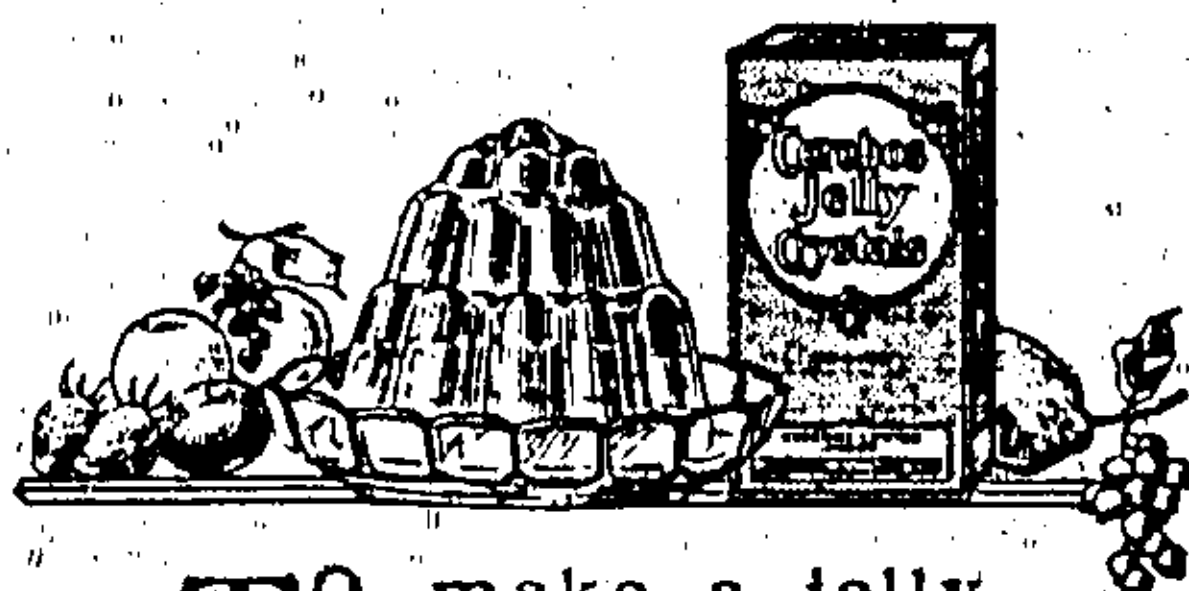

Two good methods of combining mushrooms with eggs are as follows: Simmer some mushrooms in butter until they are soft, season them well, then chop them finely. While they are cooking boil hard as many eggs as are required. Cut them in halves, and remove the yolks. Pound them with the mushrooms, and moisten with a little cream; thick gravy, or butter until the whole is like a thick paste. Pile this into the whites and serve hot or cold. For the other dish, beat up the eggs, add them to the mushrooms, which have been cooked in butter, and stir over a low heat until the egg just sets. Serve on hot toast.

Tomatoes stuffed with mushrooms are a delightful savoury dish. Choose large, firm tomatoes; cut a slice off the top, and scoop out as much of the pulp as possible, leaving the shells intact. Chop the mushrooms and a little onion and fry in butter for a few minutes. Then add the tomato pulp, a dessertspoonful of breadcrumbs for each tomato, a little chopped parsley, pepper, salt, and a pinch of mace. Stir all together and then fill the tomatoes with the mixture. Bake in a greased dish until the tomatoes are soft.

blend with 2 tablespoons flour and add a 1-lb. can of Cream of Mushroom Soup. Stir constantly until thickened and flour thoroughly cooked.

Veal and Hard Cooked Eggs With Mushroom Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter and brown slightly in 1 1/2 cups finely diced cooked veal or pork. Add 3 tablespoons flour and blend well. Add a 1-lb. can of Cream of Mushroom Soup and stir until thickened. Add the sliced whites of three hard-cooked eggs and allow to heat through thoroughly. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve over hot biscuit or toast and sprinkle over top the egg yolks forced through a sieve. Garnish with watercress.

NEW DEALS in SUMMER MEALS

Three Sunday Dishes

BREAKFAST

Kidney Omelette

Fry a thinly-sliced kidney, in butter, add seasoning and a little finely-chopped parsley and onion. Stir in a sprinkling of flour and a tablespoonful of brown stock. Cook gently for a few minutes and fold into the omelette. Save a few pieces of kidney and a little of the sauce for decorating the top.

DINNER

Strawberry Cream

Dissolve an ounce of gelatine and two ounces of castor sugar in a gill of water, and strain this into half a pint of strawberry purée obtained by rubbing the fruit through a hair sieve. Add a dash of lemon juice and a few drops of carmine, and lightly stir in a whipped half-pint of cream. When almost set, pour into a wetted mould and stand it in a cold place.

SUPPER

Prawn Croquettes

Spread some cold rounds of fried bread, with thick mayonnaise sauce, and sprinkle with mustard and cress. Arrange some shelled prawns, on top and decorate with sliced yolk of hard-boiled egg.

HAVE YOU TRIED LEMON PIE?

Now that lemons are cheap and plentiful you may like to try this. The ingredients are: Puff pastry, 2 eggs, 2 lemons, 1 pint milk, one dessert-spoonful of corn-flour, one tablespoonful of sugar. Line the sides of a buttered pie dish with puff pastry, and brush the edges with beaten egg. Decorate with strips of pastry.

Beat the yolks of the two eggs with a little sugar, the grated rinds of the lemons and the corn-flour. Mix to a smooth paste, add the milk, then pour your mixture into the pie dish. Bake in the oven until set.

Whisk the whites of the eggs to a very stiff froth with a tea-spoonful of castor sugar, pile high on top of the pie, then return to the base plate of the oven to set the meringue.

Fish Skin

When fillets of fish are being prepared for frying in batter or for steaming it may be desirable to remove the skin. This may easily be done with a sharp knife. The fillet should be laid on a board, skin downwards and held by the tail end. The blade of the knife must then be inserted next to the skin, as near the end as possible. It should be held almost flat and worked up, and down with firm pressure, so that it slides along, separating the

Cucumber Hot Or Cold

Cucumber will play a more conspicuous role in your future menus after you have studied these recipes.

Some novel ways of serving the seasonable cucumber.

Cucumber Puree Salad.—Grate cucumber, add a little butter and just a drop of water, cook until "mushy," cool.

Add two dessertspoonfuls of mayonnaise and one tablespoonful of cream. Beat until foamy, season to taste, and serve piled on crisp lettuce leaves.

Bake Cucumbers.—Cut cucumbers lengthwise in halves (leaving peel on). Scoop out pulp and chop. Add a well-beaten egg, one cup breadcrumbs, and season to taste. Put back in the shells and bake in moderate oven for forty-five minutes.

Cucumber Entree.—One cucumber, 1 pint milk, yolks of two eggs, lemon juice, 1/2 oz. butter, 1/2 oz. flour, one tablespoonful vinegar, cayenne and salt.

Cut cucumber into pieces two inches long (leaving the rind on). Place in pan of boiling water, adding salt, and cook gently for half an hour. Drain an place neatly on an entree dish.

Make a sauce of the remaining ingredients, as if making a white sauce, and adding the egg yolks, vinegar and seasoning last. Pour this over the cucumber.

fish from the skin without any waste.

Much Mayonnaise

Summer-time and cold dishes tend to recreate an interest in the many sorts of Mayonnaise sauce. Do not be misled, by the way, as I have heard of others doing, into thinking that Mayonnaise Sauce is the same as Salad Dressing.

If one thing is necessary in the serving of Mayonnaise, it is that it should be freshly made, or it will rapidly go dry. While there are, I believe, quite good bottled Mayonnaise Sauces on the market, it is very simple to make your own, and you can thus be sure that it is flavoured just to your liking.

Here, then, are the different kinds of sauces which have Mayonnaise Sauce as their base:

1. "Sauce Andalouse."—This is Mayonnaise strongly flavoured with tomato puree, and garnished with little dice of sweet peppers.

2. "Sauce Bohémienne."—This is a little different, being a cold Bechamel Sauce bound with egg-yolk, seasoned with salt and pepper, and mixed with vinegar. It is then mixed with olive oil in exactly the same way as a Mayonnaise, and finished with a little tarragon vinegar.

3. "Cambridge Sauce."—Make a purée by pounding in a mortar hard-boiled egg-yolks, anchovy fillets, capers, chervil, tarragon, chives, mustard, and a dash of cayenne. Proceed in exactly the same way in adding olive oil and vinegar, and finally pass it through a fine sieve, ending with a little chopped parsley.

4. "Sauce Chantilly" (not to be confused with "Crème Chantilly").—This is Mayonnaise made with lemon juice instead of vinegar, and completed at the moment of serving with whipped cream.

5. "Gloucester Sauce."—Mayonnaise is here flavoured with sour cream, and finished with a few drops of Escoffier Sauce and a little chopped tarragon.

6. "Green Mayonnaise."—Blanch some watercress, parsley, chervil, and tarragon, drain them and pound them. Press through a hair sieve and use the purée to colour (and flavour) the Mayonnaise.

7. "Sauce Gribiche."—This Mayonnaise is made with hard-boiled egg-yolk and flavoured with a little mustard. When it is ready, mix in some chopped gherkins, capers, chervil, parsley, tarragon, and fine strips of the white of hard-boiled eggs.

8. "Sauce Italienne."—Lemon is used instead of vinegar for the Mayonnaise, which is garnished with chopped cooked brains and chopped parsley.

9. "Mayonnaise à la Russe."—This Mayonnaise is made with tarragon vinegar, and flavoured with grated horseradish. Slightly warmed meat jelly is then whipped into it.

10. "Mayonnaise au Rallott."—Simply add grated horseradish to a plain Mayonnaise sauce.

11. "Red Mayonnaise."—Colour the Mayonnaise either with a little pounded red pepper (piment), or with the pounded coral of lobster.

12. "Remoulade Sauce."—Mayonnaise, flavoured with mustard, garnish with chopped capers, parsley, gherkins, chervil, and tarragon. It is finished with a drop or two of anchovy essence.

13. "Sauce Russe."—This is a Mayonnaise mixed with the creamy part of lobster and a purée of caviar, seasoned with mustard and a few drops of Escoffier sauce.

14. "Sauce Tartare."—This is a Mayonnaise made with hard-boiled egg-yolk. Garnish it with spring onions and chives finely chopped. It should be rather highly seasoned.

15. "Sauce Verte."—This is the same as Green Mayonnaise.

16. "Sauce Vincent."—This is made by mixings equal parts of Tartare Sauce and Green Mayonnaise.

Strawberry Cream

Half-pound strawberry jam, quarter-pound castor sugar, four egg-whites, one gill cream. Pass the jam through a sieve, mix it with the castor sugar and two tea-spoonfuls lemon juice. Whip the egg-whites to a stiff froth and beat this in. Continue to beat the mixture for half an

WHY SUFFER FROM

Influenza	Colds	Headaches	Neuralgia
Rheumatism	Nerve Pains	Sleeplessness	Lumbago
Toothache	Earache	Irritability	etc. etc.

THERE is no long waiting for results. A few 'ASPRO' Tablets and relief practically follows immediately. Furthermore, with 'ASPRO' there are no injurious after-effects, because 'ASPRO' contains no dangerous dopes or drugs and it does not harm the heart. Cheap drugs and medicines are always dangerous—they cost far more in the long run—they intensify attacks—rob you of vitality through weakening the system—and lower your power of resistance.

Remember! 'ASPRO' is guaranteed to contain no dangerous drugs. It is concentrated pure healing service in Tablet form.

You can obtain 'ASPRO' from any chemist or store in Hong Kong. 'ASPRO' has been proved and demonstrated by thousands to be the greatest pain reliever in the world. Furthermore, it restores you to good health by removing the cause of numerous complaints because 'ASPRO' after ingestion in the system, is anti-pyretic—anti-periodic anti-fermentative—anti-septic and a solvent of Uric Acid. Every house which has a packet of 'ASPRO' in it is provided against most complaints and sudden pain attacks.

'ASPRO'

Does Not Harm the Heart

What 'ASPRO' Does:

- 1 It Stops Violent Headaches in 5 to 10 minutes.
- 2 It Brings Sweet Sleep to the Sleepless.
- 3 It Relieves Rheumatism in one night.
- 4 It Relieves Children's Growing Pains.
- 5 It Saves many a Sound Tooth by Removing Toothache.
- 6 It Brings Relief without causing sickness, indigestion or a craving.
- 7 It Stops Pain without harming the Heart.
- 8 It soothes away Irritability.
- 9 A hot lemon drink with 2 or 3 'ASPRO' Tablets will smash up a Cold or 'Flu attack' in one night.
- 10 It Reduces Temperature in 5 minutes.
- 11 It can be taken at any time, in Train, Train, at Home, at Business, anywhere—anywhere.
- 12 It gives the greatest relief ever known to women at their times of periodical depression.
- 13 It Stops the After-Effects of Alcohol.
- 14 It Relieves Dizziness and Malaise by reducing the fever.
- 15 As a Cough 'ASPRO' is wonderful for Sore Throats, Tonsillitis, etc.

'ASPRO' is Woman's Best Friend

Possibly the greatest users of 'ASPRO' are women, for whom 'ASPRO' has a special charm.

TO TEMPT THE INVALID

When Meat is Permitted

It is important to achieve as much variety as possible when catering for an invalid or convalescent. Often, when you feel puzzled as to what to offer to tempt a capricious appetite, a visit to The Dairy Farm will provide inspiration.

Invalid Jelly

A strengthening meat jelly, can be made from 1 lb. each of Veal, Mutton and Beef Steak.

Cut all the meat up into small pieces and put them in a jar with 2 tablespoonfuls of water, and a pinch of salt. Cover closely and steam for 6 hours. Strain and put the liquid into small pots, which should be kept on ice until they are wanted.

Outlet in Miniature

Often the sight of too large a portion will result in an entire loss of appetite in the part of the invalid. When meat is allowed, purchase a lamb outlet and have it very neatly trimmed to a small juicy portion. Place in a basin with a very little chopped celery half a turnip and half a small carrot cut in pieces. Steam until tender, say for 4 hours. The flavour of onion is often disliked by sick persons but if half an onion is included while cooking and removed before serving it will help to make a little gravy and its presence may not otherwise be noticed.

hour if possible. Divide it into small custard cups and top each with whipped cream. If the egg and jam mixture is not a good colour, stir in a few drops of cochineal before putting it into the glasses.

Imported Fillets

Fillets of plaice, sole or whiting are all choice invalid food. Butter two plates. Lay the fillets on one, squeeze a little lime juice over them, add pepper and salt. Set the plate over a pan of boiling water and cover with the other plate. Steam for 15 minutes. A little milk and butter sauce may be prepared to serve with the fish.

Fish Custard

Another method of cooking fish is to lay the fillets in a small pie dish, season as before and covering with an unsweetened custard made from a fresh egg mixed with half a cup of milk. Stand the basin in a pan of water and cook it gently for half an hour.

Veal Tea

When a meat diet is first allowed one of the safest meats to choose is veal. Veal tea, made in much the same way as beef tea, is more easily assimilated than the latter and just as nourishing.

Cut up 1 lb. veal very small and sprinkle it with a little salt. Place it in a jar, add 1 large cup of cold water, cover with paper and let it stand for an hour. Then place the jar in a saucepan of boiling water and let it simmer for two hours.

Beef Tea

There is quite an art in making good Beef Tea. To begin with the best lean beef should be used. Cut it in small pieces and place them in a stone jar, a little more than covering them with cold water. If you have a good ice-box or refrigerator you should let the meat soak for at least 12 hours, but in a warm temperature it is not advisable to soak the meat for longer than an hour or two. Remember! hot water will make the beef tea indigestible. The meat must first soak in cold water. Similarly, when gradually heated, the tea must not be allowed to boil. A little salt is added to help to extract the juices from the meat.

After soaking the meat in cold water, the jar may be placed in the bottom of the oven or in a saucepan of water and cooked for three hours, when it can be strained.

Savoury Custard

Whisk the yolks of 2 eggs and the white of one well together. Add a small cup of Beef Tea and a pinch of salt. Grease a cup, pour the mixture in, cover with greased paper and place in a pan of water to steam.

Any shaking of the pan is apt to curdle the eggs, so leave it untouched for twenty minutes gently simmering, when it should be ready to serve.

Ice Cream

Except in the case where there is any inflammation of internal organs, ice cream is considered very wholesome for invalids, who almost always appreciate it. Only the very best ingredients go to the making of it and when one considers that a small portion need cost no more than 20 cts. from The Dairy Farm it is surprising that ice cream is not more frequently ordered for invalids. In hospitals, "ice-cream days" are always eagerly looked forward to by the patients.

GRAPE-NUTS PUDDING

Scald 2 cups grape-nuts with 14 pints milk. Let soak until cold. Beat 2 egg yolks with 1 cup sugar until light, then add other 1 pint of milk to which 2 tablespoonfuls cornstarch has been added. Fold this into the grape-nuts. Beat 2 egg whites to stiff froth and add to whole. Vanilla for flavouring can be added, if desired. Pour into greased baking pan. Bake in moderate oven until pudding sets. Serve with lemon sauce.

ANNIVERSARY OF REVOLUTION

Recommendations
For Governmental Action

Bangkok, July 5.

The second anniversary of the granting of the provisional constitution to the people of Siam has passed off in a flood of oratory.
For three nights in succession three of the present day leaders have broadcast addresses of considerable length getting forth to the people what has transpired since the constitution was granted.

The military speaker gave the first, broadcast remarking how much the forces of His Majesty loved the principle of the Constitution. Luang Pradit on the third evening expressed the same ideas on behalf of the civilians, and the midday orator was Prince Varnvalayakara, product of Marlborough and Oxford, ex-Minister to the Court of St. James, and presently an Adviser in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, who expressed "his feelings and thoughts as one of the observers."

This Siamese "eye witness," to recall a phrase familiar in the great war, is no pessimist. The Government, he said, had met every major obstacle but unfortunately there existed wrong thinkers and strategists of evil though their demonstrations have greatly decreased in value.

An insurrection had already been tried unsuccessfully, and now the "tricky method of setting the people to fall out with one another had been adopted."

SIAM'S FIRST BREWERY

Utilising Old Beer Bottles

Bangkok, July 5.

Siam's first brewery may now be said to be fairly under way, and the beer is on the market. The brew houses and other buildings have been erected to the latest designs obtaining in Europe and in ferro-concrete on a site with river frontage and canal communications to all parts of the capital.

The brewery is at production stage with two months of prospectus promise which is not unsatisfactory. The distribution arrangements include the provision that those handling the company's products—two qualities are at present brewed—are shareholders.

The staff except the master brewer and the chief engineer, is wholly Siamese, and the capital is sufficiently Siamese to satisfy the most ardent advocate of Siamese control for Siamese companies.

The company pays the ordinary import duties for its raw materials, malt, hops etc., and an excise duty of ten cents per litre of beer brewed, and hopes to be able to sell its entire production at prices below imported beers.

However much water there may be in a good beer, the capital has been kept closely to the actual monies required for the establishment of the industry in bulks and material, and machinery. The latter, from Germany, is under guarantee for some time.

The bottles required are bought locally. They are old beer bottles, and have the advantage over imported bottles of having been tested in actual use, and being cheaper than the imported article.
The whole plant has been designed to allow of extension without dislocation of any of the present erections.

AIRCRAFT TO BE DISPLAYED

British Machines In Shanghai

Shanghai, July 12.

Leading Chinese Government officials are to have the opportunity shortly of witnessing a demonstration of the latest type of British fighting aircraft. Arrangements are being made to demonstrate at various aviation centres in North China and details of the proposed demonstration in Shanghai will be announced at an early date.

The demonstration and display have been made possible by the co-operation of several manufacturers interested in the Chinese market, through the Far East Aviation Company of Hongkong and Shanghai.

A Fairey "Fox" reconnaissance fighter fitted with Rolls Royce Kestrel engine has arrived in Shanghai and will be available for this demonstration. To date most of the aircraft supplied to China have been fitted with water-cooled engines and this is believed to be the first opportunity that Government officials have had of observing a modern Rolls Royce water-cooled motor in operation. This well-known motor is used in great numbers by the Royal Air Force.

The Fairey "Fox" aircraft is a splendid example of latest British fighting equipment. At the request of Government officials, no performance figures are available for publication, but it is stated that the performance is outstanding and superior to that of any similar type machine previously shown in China.

In conjunction with the proposed demonstration of the Fairey "Fox" aircraft which will be piloted by Flight-Lieutenant A. D. Bennett of the Far-East Aviation Co., a demonstration is planned of British training methods. This portion of the display will be given by Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, a member of the staff of the Far-East Flying Training School of Hongkong. In this demonstration Lord Douglas-Hamilton will use an Avro training machine. It is interesting to note that Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, who has had extensive aviation experience in both the Royal Air Force and in commercial aviation, is a brother of the Marquis of Clydesdale, who was the senior pilot of the successful Mount Everest Expedition. Another brother, Lord Nigel Douglas-Hamilton, is also prominent in British aviation circles.

The sequence of training used by the Royal Air Force to-day has been very carefully developed over a long period extending from the first days of military aviation. This sequence is the result of very careful psychological investigation of a great number of students and is believed to incorporate the most effective and efficient training methods in use to-day.

The demonstration and display is in line with increased British interests in aviation development in China, as evidenced by the appointment of Group Captain R. P.
Wilcock, R.A.F., in the newly created post of Air Attache to the British Legation.

In addition to a number of prominent Chinese officials, Group Captain Wilcock and various other prominent British officials in China will be present at the demonstration.

RICARDO CORTEZ
Plays Opposite Kay Francis

Ricardo Cortez, who plays one of the leading masculine roles opposite Kay Francis in "The House on 56th Street," which is coming to Alhambra on Sunday, won a long term contract with Warner Bros. for his talented work in that picture.

Cortez was borrowed from another motion picture company to play the part of a card shark in the Kay Francis picture. His work was so outstanding that Warner Bros. decided they wanted him for other pictures. Negotiations were entered into to take over his contract with the result that Cortez is now a member of the Warner Bros. long list of stars. He was immediately cast for a leading role with Bette Davis in "The Shakedown."

In "The House on 56th Street," Cortez plays the role of gambling partner to Kay Francis. The two play the big ocean liners and when this gets too hot for them, they settle themselves in a New York gambling establishment on 56th Street. It is the same house to which Kay, as a Broadway chorus girl, had been taken as a bride by her wealthy aristocratic husband before she was convicted, although innocent, of killing a former lover.

Margaret Lindsay plays the role of the star's daughter, while others

"Murder In Trinidad," a Fox picture adapted from the best selling novel by John Vandercrook, a Crime Club story which attracted wide attention among mystery readers opens to-day at the King's Theatre. The picture introduces a unique background. The world famous Caroni swamp in Trinidad, treacherous with quicksand, infested with man-eating crocodiles and inaccessible to civilized man, provides an atmosphere that intensifies an already exciting story.

The story concerns a London detective who is called to the Port of Spain by the authorities to attempt to stop the flood of Brazilian diamonds that are pouring in to the world market via Trinidad. Shortly after his arrival, a series of murders take place that baffles both the authorities and the outwardly stupid detective. With the aid of a young man, the detective follows a trail that leads to the infested Caroni swamps. They are temporarily accepted by the band of hunted men living there. They discover evidence of the diamond traffic, and also the astonishing facts that lead to the apprehension of the murderer.

The detective is portrayed by Nigel Bruce, who gave so splendid a performance in "Coming Out Party," his first American picture. Douglas Walton plays the role of the young man who aids the detective and supplied the romantic interest opposite charming Heather Angel. Others in the cast are Victor Jory Murray Kinnell, J. Carroll Nash, Claude King, Pat Somerset, Francis Ford, John Davidson and Nob Johnson.

Louis King directed from Seton I. Miller's adaptation of the novel.

MASSACRE
At The Alhambra

This film at the Alhambra is having a very good run. There is nothing to be desired in the acting, which stars Richard Barthelmess and Ann Dvorak.

This story shows the "massacre" of the Indian, not by guns and bullets, but through the commissioners appointed by the Federal Government to look after the reservations. If the scenes depicted are true to life, then we have again here one of those extraordinary films in which the Americans delight, in criticising their administration. There is graft from the officer in charge of the reservation down to the doctor and the undertaker.

It is to be hoped that the situation was never so bad as this story. At any rate the film is well worth seeing, although it is to be hoped that no-one will learn the methods of graft shown.

HERE'S ANOTHER GREAT PICTURE YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS!

Blazing! Mighty! Glorious!
It's great because it's real!
Directed by JOHN FORD with Victor McLaglen, Boris Karloff, Reginald Denny, Wallace Ford and others.

"SPITFIRE"
Katharine Hepburn's Best

Dressed in gingham, her hair flying in the wind, hurling epithets, loving like a mix, and hating like a devil, Katharine Hepburn, as Trigger Hicks, in the RKO-Radio picture, "Spitfire," comes to the King's Theatre, on Sunday, in what is said to be the most difficult role of her brilliant career. In this picture of the Broadway stage hit, "Trigger," Miss Hepburn battles men, mobs, the Devil, and love itself, and makes you believe in her.

As Trigger, she lives with her drunken father in a small cabin in the Carolina mountains. George Fleetwood and John Stafford, two engineers working on a nearby construction job, fall in love with her. Fleetwood loves her because he can see beneath the surface of her turbulent nature and into the very depths of her soul, which, despite all outer indications to the contrary, is that of an angel. He knows that she secretly spends much of her time in praying for her ailing neighbours, and accomplishing miracles of healing by means of her childlike faith. But Stafford is attracted solely by her beauty, and it is to him that she gives her kisses.

The climax is reached when Trigger abducts a dying baby, planning to heal it by faith and prayer. Angry mountaineers storm her little cabin, intending to run her out of the community. Stafford shows his yellow streak by deserting her in this, the hour of her greatest need. His fight shatters her love and fills her heart with dismay, and she finds herself unable to pray effectively for the baby. The angry mob closes

"THE LOST PATROL"
At The Oriental

"The Lost Patrol," showing at the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday, is a marvellous picture.

They didn't know where they were, or why they were there. Somewhere across the heat blistered desert was a brigade they were supposed to rejoin, but how, or when, or where, they did not know.

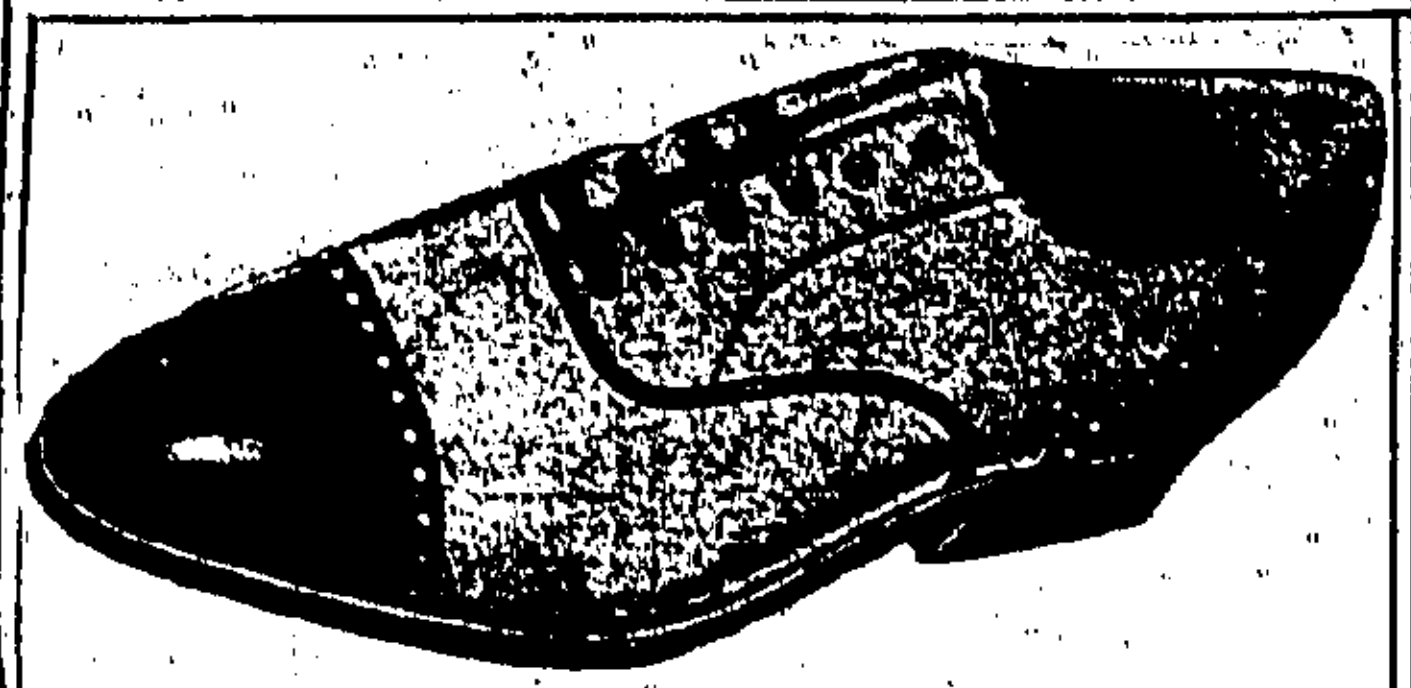

All of their orders were locked in the brain of their officer. And he was dead!

That is the tragic and dramatic situation of "The Lost Patrol," the British cavalrymen around whom the story of RKO-Radio Pictures' screen epic, featuring Victor McLaglen, Boris Karloff, Reginald Denny, Wallace Ford and others centres.

How the men of "The Lost Patrol" meet the challenge of the Mesopotamian desert and defy the savage Arabs who make a circle of death about them is revealed in a drama characterized by amazing power and heart quickening suspense.

McLaglen plays the leading figure, that of the unconquerable sergeant, and Karloff has the strong role of a religious fanatic whose reason totters under the strain of waiting for death on the desert.

In on her, and it is then that Fleetwood comes to her defense. And then Miss Hepburn, at bay, gives a performance that has been acclaimed as transcending in dramatic power anything seen on the screen in years.

BUTTER AS "CHAP FO"

Charged with possession of 1,440 taels of raw opium and with exporting 15 parcels of cloth and 15 parcels of sundries without having paid them on the ship's manifest, Leung Ngau, No. 1 Fireman on the s.s. Haining was discharged at the Central Magistracy yesterday when he appeared before Mr.
E. W. Hamilton.

Mr. M. K. Lo appeared for the defence and Mr. W. A. Mackinlay watched the case on behalf of Messrs. Douglas and Co., the owners of the Haining.

At the previous hearing, the prosecution had given evidence that for tins containing opium, the cloth and sundries were found in a secret compartment in the stokehold of the ship.

Defendant, in the witness box, said that a search was made of the side bilges of the ship, and some tins of butter were found.
He said that this was "chap fo".
Later the door leading to the water tank was opened and a search was made, resulting in the discovery of the opium. He did not know of the existence of this secret chamber and he did not know that was opium there. When he mentioned the word "chap fo" he was referring to the butter and not to the contents of the secret chamber.

Mr. Hamilton remarked there was not sufficient evidence to justify conviction. The goods were ordered to be confiscated.

TYPEWRITER FRAUDS

Charged on four counts with fraudulent misappropriation of four typewriters, Han Kan-heung, alias Wilson Han, manager of the Java Trading Company was sentenced to one month's imprisonment on the first charge and two months on the two other charges
when he appeared before Mr.
Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

The typewriter sets were the properties of Messrs. Brandt and Co., Mustard and Co., Lee Hing and Co., and the Office Appliance Co., and were taken delivery of on various dates.

Det. Sgt. Shepherd said that the defendant was formerly employed at the China Gold Bar Company. He was discharged after two months and then attempted to open out on his own under the name of the Java Trading Company. He secured one typewriter from Messrs. Brandt and Co., on the instalment basis at $90 but when he fell in need of money he pawed it for $60. On July 11 he went to the three other companies and obtained three more typewriters. He pawed two and went to Macao where he gambled and lost. He then sold the other machine.

Defendant in his evidence corroborated Sgt. Shepherd's remarks and appealed to his worship to deal leniently with him as his testimonials hitherto had been quite straight.

Mr. Macfadyen convicted the accused and remarked that the latter should have stopped when he had received his first warning, but his subsequent acts when he obtained three more typewriters showed that there was a system in his dealings and the least he could do was to convict the accused.

COUNTERFEIT COINS

Arrested at Queen's Road West in the early hours of Saturday morning, Chan San, 37, was brought before Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday charged with being in possession two silver dollars, 21 ten-cent pieces and 2 five-cent pieces, all being counterfeit coins.

Detective-Inspector J. Fender appeared for the prosecution and Mr. D. L. Strellet represented the defendant, who entered a plea of "not guilty". Mr. Strellet, however, admitted that the coins were in his client's possession and that he knew they were counterfeit coins.

According to Inspector Fender, defendant was walking along Queen's Road West at 2.30 a.m. on Saturday when he was stopped by a Shampong constable and searched. On his person was found the counterfeit coins, $1.60 genuine money and a $50 note.

Police Constable Dill, who arrested the defendant, then gave evidence in support of Inspector Fender's statement. He said he was not acting on information when he searched the defendant who was acting in a suspicious manner by trying to avoid him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Strellet, witness said that he did not know that the defendant had been searched by another constable before and denied that the defendant was handed to him by that constable.

After evidence had been given by Inspector Fender, the case was adjudged till Saturday.

POSSESSION OF HEROIN PILLS

Convicted on a charge of being in possession of 17,000 heroin pills, two Chinese, Sze To Shu Man and Fung Lok were each fined $2000 or, in default, four months' hard labour by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday.

It was stated by Detective Sergeant Goodwin that the pills were in defendants' room at No. 103, Wing Lok Street, first floor. He went there at 8.30 p.m. on July 14 on information received but the defendants were not there. On his instructions, a foki in the house forced open the door to the cubicle, and there he (Sergeant Goodwin) found the pills in two boxes. About an hour later, the first defendant returned. He produced keys and attempted to open the lock to the door which had been re-fixed. As he did so he was arrested. Ten minutes later the second defendant returned, pushed open the door and walked in. The cubicle was rented about three weeks ago by both defendants.

For unlawfully making fast to the British steamer the Helikon, while she was still underway last Tuesday afternoon, Chan Kah So, a boatwoman was fined $15 or in default two weeks hard labour by Commander Hole at the Marine Court yesterday morning.

DOG OWNERS FINED

Several of Hong Kong's dog owners appeared at the Central Magistracy yesterday before Mr.
Macfadyen when summonses arising out of allowing unmuzzled dogs to be at large, were heard.

Mr. E. J. R. Mitchell, of No. 9 Shek-O Road was summoned for allowing a bull terrier and a fox terrier to be unmuzzled and unleashed on the road leading to Bog Wave Bay. A representative appeared on behalf of the defendant and was fined $20 after pleading guilty.

E. A. Jenkinson, of No. 303 The Peak, was fined ten dollars on a summons for allowing his dog abroad at Jardine's Corner, un-muzzled and not on the lead.

L. G. Scott, living at No. 2 Bungalow, Repulse Bay Road, was also fined $10. In this case, Sergeant Dall stated there had been complaints about the dog running about Repulse Bay beach without a muzzle.

Miss Dora Ellis, of No. 2 Fly Dragon Terrace, summoned in respect of an unmuzzled dog, stated she was willing to give up the animal.

Sergeant Kelly stated that the dog was behind a gate and snapped at an amah passing by, tearing her clothes. The dog was sent for observation in September last year, and had now been again sent to Kennedy Town.

YEAR'S HIGHEST TEMPERATURE

Yesterday's Abnormal Heat Wave

A temperature of 93.1 degrees, the highest on record during the present heat wave, was registered at the Royal Observatory at 3.10 p.m. yesterday, this almost reaching the record heat for July, that of 94 degrees which was registered as far back as 1896.

The abnormal heat is attributed to the typhoon which is situated about one hundred miles to the east of Central Formosa moving westwards.

It is indicated that so long as the typhoon continues on its present course the present spell of sultry weather will continue. The highest temperature recorded at the Royal Observatory on Tuesday was 92.2 degrees.

from Dec. 10 next.

A submarine expert, Rear-Adml.
Talbot saw distinguished service in command of underwater craft in the Great War. He was specially promoted to commander in October, 1914, for his useful and gallant work in penetrating the Heligo-land Light. He received the D.S.O. for sinking the German destroyer G 196 in July, 1915.

Rear-Adml. Wake, who will take up his first flag appointments since his promotion in September last year, served throughout the war as gunnery officer and commander of the battleships Thunderer and King George V.

H.M.S. RAMILLIES

The battleship Ramillies, which has been undergoing large repairs for over a year in Devonport Dockyard, will be commissioned to-day by Captain Ralph Leatham, late of the R.N. War College, for trials.
The alterations to the ship, which are estimated to have cost £499,- 000, include the fitting of an aircraft catapult. About August 31 the Ramillies is to be completed to full crew for service in the First Battle Squadron in the Mediterranean in place of the Royal Oak, which in turn will be taken in hand for large repairs.

The executive officer of the Ramillies, who will be reappointed when she commissions, is Commander P. F. Glover, from the Signal Department at the Admirality. Her specialist officers are:
Lieutenant-Commander G. P. Packard (gunnery), formerly of H.M.S.
Medway, China; Lieutenant-Commander F. N. Craven (navigation), formerly of the cruiser Durban,
South America; and Lieutenant R.
S. Welby (torpedo), who last year completed the advanced course at Greenwich. It is nearly 21 years since the Ramillies was laid down at the Dalmuir-works of Beardmore and Co., but under the London Treaty she may have to last for at least another 74 years.

MEETING AT DUBAN

From to-day until Wednesday week a meeting will take place at Durban between ships of the Africa and the East Indies Squadrons.
This is in continuance of the policy of inter-squadron visits which has been particularly in evidence this year, with the holding of the Conference at Singapore in January between the Admirals of the China, East Indies, Australia, and New Zealand squadrons, followed by a visit of the China flagship to Australia.

The ships of the Africa will be the Hawkins, Captain E. J. Phillips, flagship of Vice-Admiral Sir Martin Dunbar-Nasmith, V.C., K.C.B., Commander-in-Chief in the East Indies; and the following ships of the Africa Squadron—Dorsetshire,

ECHOES OF 1861

37—The Early Days Of Kowloon.

We paid a visit to the Cowloon site on Sunday, and took a more careful view of the place than we have hitherto had an opportunity of doing.

Mr. Commissioner May has made rapid progress in developing the resources of the place, and considering the primitive means at his command, we were not a little surprised at the result. He has nothing but convict labour to rely on, and his prison is a confiscated boat, which likewise serves for the police station. An excellent road has been constructed to the Civil encampment, which is beautifully situated on the summit of a hill, and consists of a number of tents enclosed on a levelled spot by a bamboo fence. The road then strikes in an Easterly direction, and when completed will communicate with all the villages on the session.

The statistics of the Civil Commissioner combined with a report of the cases adjudicated by him, would be valuable returns in more respects than one. In the first place they would illustrate the sad state of anarchy at present ruling in China, and in the next place they would form an authentic and unimpeachable record of what Cowloon was, when the English took it. Should the place ever attain the importance we expect it will, such a record will be cherished by future generations.

For instance, highway robbery was the rule, not the exception.
A case was reported to the commissioner of a man being waylaid and robbed whilst some stone cutters looked passively on. These stone cutters were taught a very useful lesson, for a few days after when another robbery was attempted at the same locality, they apprehended the thieves.

Again, all other property of value being absorbed, we suppose, the thieves resorted to stealing girls—that is to say, burglariously entering a house, in which it is of course known a grown up girl is one of the inmates, and forcibly abducting her therefrom. The practice used to be quite common, and one case has occurred since the civil encampment was pitched.

The extent of the session is much larger than we had the most remote idea of. Cutting off the corners we should say it must be more than ten miles round. The difference between the atmosphere on the Cowloon site and on this is something considerable. For instance on Sunday last, whilst there was scarcely any wind here, there was a strong breeze blowing on the Cowloon side through the Lyceum-moon. This difference surprised us.

at the National Shrine in Edinburgh will form the central feature at the annual ceremony commemorating the fallen, to be held on Saturday, July 21.

The Duke of Atholl, as chairman of the Scottish National War Memorial Committee, will accept the consecrated colours for custody within the Shrine.

Procession From St. Giles'

The Services will, as customarily, combine in a colourful and impressive ceremony, a dress rehearsal for which is to be held on the forenoon of the preceding day. Led by the pipe band of the 1st Battalion the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, the colour parties, wreath bearers, and the choir of St.
Giles' Cathedral will form a procession from St. Giles' to the Castle.

There will be present guards of the Royal Navy, of the Army (1st Battalion the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders) and of the Royal Air Force, and in addition the three Services and also British Legion (Scotland) will be represented by a colour party and a wreath bearer.

Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Archibald
R. Cameron, G.O.C.-in-Chief, Scottish Command, who will be accompanied by the Duke of Atholl the Rear-Admiral Commanding the Coast of Scotland, and the Officer Commanding R.A.F. base, Leuchairs, will receive on his arrival a general salute from the guards, who he will later inspect.

Service In Shrine

The Dean of the Thistle, the Very Rev. Charles L. Warr, D.D., is to conduct the religious service, in the course of which he will make the pronouncement as to the "laying up" of the Cameron colours. Immediately thereafter the Duke of Atholl will accept the colours for safe keeping within the Shrine. The colours will then be trooped round the guards, and so into the Memorial, where the brief "laying up" ceremony will be carried through.

To the accompaniment of the playing of "The Flowers of the Forest," the various wreaths will be placed at the base of the Memorial, and the service subsequently completed. The Castle will be closed on July 21 until after the ceremony admittance being given only to ticketholders.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR HOSPITAL

ANNUAL MEETING OF ALICE MEMORIAL AND AFFILIATED HOSPITALS

Appeal By The Hon. Mr. S. W. Tso

Presiding over the annual meeting of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals yesterday, the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso, made a strong appeal for funds to enable the committee to put up a new Nethersole Hospital.

"The earlier we are in a position to build," said Dr. Tso, "the quicker will the poor receive the benefit of such donations."

In another part of his speech, Dr. Tso said that Western medical treatment is being more and more appreciated by the poor Chinese in the Colony. In the medical work of the associated hospitals the number of in-patients and out-patients showed an increase over previous years.

Plan Originated In 1929

Dr. Tso's speech was as follows: Ladies and Gentlemen:—The Annual Report and Statement of Accounts of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals for the year 1933 have been in your hands for some time and with your permission I will take them as read.

In his report the Superintendent of the hospitals, brought to your notice the fact that the Nethersole building was demolished in May this year on account of its unsafe condition.

Three years ago, temporary repairs were carried out on the timbers of the roof, but a recent examination showed that the destruction by white ants was so extensive that no further repairs were possible. Under such circumstances there was no alternative but to have it pulled down.

In anticipation of the eventualities which have now happened, the Executive Committee in 1929 instructed Mr. Little of Messrs. Little Adams and Wood to prepare a building plan for the erection of a new Alice Memorial Hospital and the re-erection of the Nethersole. The Alice Memorial old building in Hollywood Road had then been sold. It was found that it was impossible to carry on hospital work there on account of its overcrowded surroundings.

In due course, Mr. Little submitted to the Committee a plan showing one block of buildings divided into three sections; each section could be built when funds are available. After careful consideration, the Committee adopted this plan and the Alice Memorial was built according to the plan two years ago out of the proceeds of sale of its old building and complete the first section of our building scheme.

$130,000 Needed

The cost for building the other two sections was estimated at $200,000. The Executive Committee launched an appeal for building funds in 1931. The amount of donations collected up to date is, I understand, about $70,000 and we still need a sum of $130,000 to complete the whole scheme.

Now, Ladies and Gentlemen, the time has come when every effort must be made to raise that sum or such part of it as to enable us to build, as soon as possible, at least another section of our scheme in order to continue the work, which the Nethersole had carried on during the last 40 years of dispensing medical aid to poor women and children. The name of Nethersole Hospital has been indelibly imprinted in the minds of the poor in the Colony and they were accustomed to go there and seek help. A new Nethersole is now urgently needed, and on behalf of the Committee, I ask the whole community to come to our aid.

No words of mine can appeal to you more strongly than the sight of the demolition of the old building and the knowledge that the good work hitherto done by it must now suffer. Any donation, great or small, may be sent to and will be gratefully received by the Honorary Treasurers, Messrs. Linstead and Davis, Gloucester Building, or any member of the Executive Committee or the Superintendent, Alice Memorial Hospital, Bonham Road.

"He giveth twice, that gives, in a trice." For the earlier we are in a position to build the quicker will the poor receive the benefit of such donations.

Associated Hospitals

With regard to the medical work of the associated hospitals the number of in-patients shows an increase over the previous year. This indicates that Western medical treatments are more and more appreciated by the poor Chinese in the Colony. The Matron in her report told us an interesting fact that the first examination of the Hong Kong Nursing Board was held exactly 40 years after the first Chinese probationer nurse was received to the Alice Memorial Hospital for training. Hitherto, we have held our own hospital examinations. But now with an External Examination Board for public examination with registration, a uniform standard of training in the Colony will be obtained.

It now remains for me to heartily thank, on behalf of our hospitals, all those ladies and gentlemen whose names appeared in the Superintendent's and Matron's Report, for the voluntary and valuable services they have rendered to our hospitals. As the names mentioned in the Report are so many I shall ask you to excuse me from mentioning them individually.

With regard to the Statement of Accounts you will be pleased to note that in the Income and Expenditure Account there is an excess of income over expenditure amounting to $3,099.34. This will somewhat reduce the amount of excess of expenditure over income for the previous year amounting to $5,575.52.

I have the pleasure now to move the adoption of the Report and Accounts. When the motion is seconded, I shall be pleased to answer any questions relating thereto which you may have to ask.

The adoption of the report and accounts was seconded by Mr. A. Stevenson and carried unanimously.

Other Business

The Estimates for 1934, showing gross receipts of $43,700 and expenditure of $48,350 were proposed by Mr. F. S. Cassidy and seconded by the Hon. T. N. Chau. They were unanimously carried.

The Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso was elected chairman and the Hon. Sir William Shenton, Deputy Chairman. The motion was carried with applause.

The following new members to the General Committee were elected: Messrs. A. W. Hughes, A. G. W. Tickle, Cheung Wing Kue, Kwok Im Shing and Lo Chung Wa.

The following were elected to serve on the Executive Committee:—The Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, Mr. Tang Shiu Kin and Mr. A. W. Hughes.

A vote of thanks for the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau for collecting the Chinese donations, to Messrs. H. R. Forsyth and A. Sommerfelt of Messrs. Linstead and Davis for their services as Hon. Treasurers, and to Mr. J. Fleming of Messrs. Lowe Bingham and Matthews for auditing the accounts was proposed by the Chairman and carried unanimously.

The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the Chairman for presiding and to the General Chamber of Commerce for the use of their Board Room.

NO PERMITS TO KOWLOON

Hongkong To Be Isolated

In connection with the rabies menace, the authorities, in view of the many cases reported in Kowloon, will in future refuse to issue any permit for the moving of any dog from Hong Kong to Kowloon.

The information was given to the "Daily Press" in an interview with the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon yesterday.

It was explained that in view of the large number of cases on the mainland, especially in Mongkok and Kowloon Tong, that it would be much better for dogs in Hong Kong to remain isolated.

A Suggestion

Mr. S. V. Boxer said that in connection with the site of the old Nethersole Hospital in Bonham Road it might be a good idea to erect a hoarding there explaining why the building had to be pulled down and asking for contributions for the erection of the new buildings. Mr. Boxer explained that it is not generally known that the building had been pulled down without any provisions having been made for the construction of a new building on the site.

Those Present

In addition to the Chairman, there were present the Hon. Sir William Shenton, the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, Mr. S. V. Boxer, Mr. A. W. Hughes, Mr. H. Sommerfelt, Mr. A. Stevenson, Mr. P. S. Cassidy, Dr. R. M. Gibson, Dr. R. M. Alderson, Rev. H. R. Wells, Miss M. Ward and Mrs. A. Hughes.

MATRON'S REPORT

In the course of her report the Matron of the Hospital writes:—The word Examinations seems to be written largely across the year 1933. It has been a difficult year in many ways although it has been interesting and perhaps historically. In January the first examination under the auspices of the Hong Kong Nursing Board was held. In order to facilitate those who had been in training for a period of two years or longer this was followed by other examinations in May and December. Actually some of our nurses took both the Preliminary and the Final examinations in one year. Fifteen nurses passed the Preliminary examinations and five were successful in the Final, two obtaining honours. Nine nurses have obtained the Certificate of the Hong Kong Midwives Board. It will be readily seen that this has meant a vast amount of work for teachers and students alike. The Medical staff has been responsible for the lectures in Anatomy and Physiology, Medicine, Surgery and Midwifery. The Nursing Staff have given the Practical Nursing, Hygiene, Materia Medica and Dietetic lectures.

It is interesting to note the first examination of the Hong Kong Nursing Board was held exactly forty years after the first probationer nurse was received into the Alice Memorial Hospital for training; the very first Chinese probationer nurse in the Colony. We have held our own hospital examinations for many years and for a number of years other hospitals in the Colony have been doing the same. But now with an External Examination Board for public examinations with registration it is hoped that a uniform standard of training will be obtained.

It is now possible to have women nurses in the Mens' Hospital so that the training is really General. We are glad to report that the nurses have done very good work in this department. It was difficult to make a beginning because our hostel accommodation was inadequate, the Nurses' Home already being strained to its utmost capacity. Early in the year the London Missionary Society granted us for a nominal rental the use of a house on this Compound. This enabled us to receive five additional probationers and we were pleased to give the Sisters a combined sitting room and dining room of their own. As there was good kitchen accommodation we were able to start a nurses' kitchen and thus relieve the rather over-crowded kitchen which up to then had catered for all the staff as well as patients. The nurses have very much appreciated this change as we were able to make some slight adjustments in the hours of meals, an important item in a nurse's day!

JULY CRIMINAL SESSIONS

Ten Years For Theft Of Junk And Cargo

The Chief Justice passed sentence totalling ten years' hard labour on a Chinese who pleaded not guilty to stealing a junk and its cargo of wolfram ore in the course of a piracy within six miles of Hong Kong. Accused pleaded guilty, however to unlawful possession or control of one rifle and nine rounds of ammunition.

He was shot in the thigh by police in a chase at High Islands. The Chief Justice commended the work of Sub-Inspector Stewart in effecting the release of the victims of the robbery.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown.

The following jurors were called to hear the case:—Messrs. J. McCormack (foreman), F. Helmer, R. W. Smith, Tsui Wah Chui, C. G. Anderson, Chan Yat Funk, and E. Sequeira.

Story of Robbery

Narrating the circumstances of the alleged robbery Mr. Fraser said that on April 12 a junk sailed from San Mei Bay to take a cargo of wolfram ore to Hong Kong, the value of the cargo being about $1,000 and the value of the junk much less. The next day they were near Nine Pins Island about six knots from the Colony when they saw they were being overtaken by another junk in which were several men shouting to them to leave to.

The junk came alongside and three men carrying between them a rifle, a revolver, and two daggers, jumped on board and took charge of the vessel. They sent the crew forward and sailed the two boats to a near-by island. There the crew were transferred to the hatches of the pirate boat and later in the day a meal was brought to them by prisoner who was carrying a rifle. The next day the pirate vessel sailed north and the cargo boat and its cargo were not seen again, and had not since been recovered.

Police Visit

On April 14 the No. 4 Police Launch was visiting High Island when the European officer in charge, Sub-Inspector Stewart, received information which led him to take a group of police by land over to the other side of the island. There a junk was seen anchored in the channel. Two boats were chartered to take the police to the junk but when about fifty yards away four men were seen to jump for the far shore.

On reaching land one of the runaways fired a revolver to which the police replied with a volley which brought one of the men to the ground. Leaving a detective in charge of the wounded man, the officer chased the men with the remainder of the police but was unable to find his quarry in the rapidly falling darkness.

The wounded man's condition necessitated his removal to hospital and while there he was identified by the captives who had been found still locked in the hatches of the pirates' boat. At the conclusion of the evidence for the Crown, prisoner said: "I have nothing to say" when asked if he wished to give evidence on his own behalf.

Mr. Fraser said he did not wish to address the Court and His Lordship proceeded to sum up, commending the police as stated above. Without retiring the jury returned a verdict of "Guilty" and sentence was passed.

FORGED BANKNOTES

Chinese Gets Five Years For Possession

Pleading guilty to possession of seventeen forged banknotes imitations of the $10 issue of the Chartered Bank of India Australia and China, Li Ki Shun, who appeared before Mr. Justice Jackson was sentenced to five years' hard labour.

Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, stated that according to the evidence of the bank clerks at the Police Court hearing, the forged Chartered Bank notes were extremely clever, and would even deceive bank officials. Floating notes of this nature in the Colony were a great danger to the commercial world. On June 6, the Police went to No. 28 Wing Wo Street. The accused was seen on the roof at the mouth of a fanlight in the kitchen.

On seeing the police he ran across the roof and on reaching the parapet threw a parcel containing forged notes into the scavenging lane. They were retrieved. A search of the premises was made but nothing further was revealed.

A Very Serious Offence

The Judge (examination the notes):—These appear to be very good imitations, but experts may disagree. It is a very serious offence, and is a menace to the business community of this Colony. Prisoner:—People brought these notes and left them in my place. I knew it was against the law and so I took them to the roof for safe custody.

His Lordship:—I regard it as a very serious offence, there has been too much of it lately. Five years with hard labour.

Prisoner:—The amount involved is not much, so why should I get five years?

The Crown Prosecutor:—There has been a flood of these cases recently.

His Lordship agreed there had been too many such cases, and explained to the prisoner that he (his Lordship) must try to stop it.

On the application of Mr. Lockhart-Smith, his Lordship made an order for the destruction of the forged Chartered Bank notes, and defacement and return of the guilder note to the Consul for the Netherlands.

ROBBERY IN WOOD ROAD

Convicted Man Gets Ten Years

Lo Hoi Tung and Wong Ching, two men concerned in the robbery on Mr. Lai Hin Man at No. 8 Wood Road were sentenced by Mr. Justice Jackson yesterday to ten years and five years hard labour respectively. Both prisoners pleaded guilty. Lo Hoi Tung was also charged with returning from banishment.

Mr. Lockhart-Smith, Wong Tsing, I can say now, was involved in the same robbery to which the first accused pleaded guilty. It was on information received in connection with that robbery that a search was made in Kowloon. A Chinese constable was sent across to No. 699 Nathan Road and waited outside. Presently he saw this man and another, who is being dealt with elsewhere, coming towards him. The accused was carrying a parcel, which, when questioned, he stated, had been given to him.

The constable partly opened the parcel and saw a gun. He was taken to Mongkok Police Station where the parcel was examined after which he was then taken to Wanchai Police Station and charged. He is undoubtedly one of the gang and the other man is also one of the gang. There is no criminal record against this accused.

His Lordship said he regarded the offence as very serious and passed sentence of five years.

$10,300 Taken

Dealing with the indictment against Lo Hoi-tung, Mr. Lockhart-Smith said that on June 2, Mr. Lai Hin-man was in the ground floor drawing room of his residence at No. 8 Wood Road. Two men came in from the direction of the staircase leading up from the basement. At first he did not recognise either of them, but when one of them gave him his name he remembered him as the nephew of his fourth concubine, whom he had employed twenty years ago.

Mr. Lockhart-Smith mentioned that another member of the gang had been arrested in Canton on information given by Mr. Lai.

Mr. Lockhart-Smith continued that at the point of the gun Mr. Lai was asked for $10,000. He was forced to open his safe from which he extracted a wallet containing $10,300. The robbers fought for possession and the accused grabbed the three $100 notes. There were present at the time, Mr. Lai, the chauffeur, Mr. Lai's fourth concubine and his daughter. The concubine fainted and in the confusion that followed, the chauffeur made his way to the Police Station.

"To Be Taken For Bide" They actually attempted to remove Mr. Lai from his house.

UNIFICATION IN CHINA

Very Bright
View

Shanghai, July 18. The Minister of Interior, Mr. Huang Shao Hsiung, arrived here this morning from Hong Kong aboard the s.s. Chenonceaux.

In an interview with Reuter, Mr. Huang declared that his trip to the south was entirely personal and no Government mission was attached to his meeting with General Chen Chi Tang, Mr. Hu Han Min, Mr. Li Tsung Jen and Pao Chung Hsi.

Mr. Huang added that much progress had been made in Kwangtung and Kwangsi in recent years, particularly on the economic side. Perfect understanding, he said, exists between the Government and the southern leaders, and the outlook for national unification is extremely bright.

Mr. Huang will leave for Nanking shortly, and will go to Nanchang to report the result of his trip to Marshal Chiang Kai Shek. —Reuter.

that in its own small way Rotary in Hong Kong is speeding up the work of promoting international concord amongst a distinctly cosmopolitan community.

The time has long passed when a person could cling fondly to his own circle of intimate friends and imagine himself supremely fortunate in the matter of friendships. Modern conditions call for a wider range of friends, both in business and in society. Accordingly it becomes necessary to study and be familiar with the customs and habits of other people and above all to create a spirit of understanding and toleration.

The Rotary Club of Hong Kong was fortunate in its selection of Presidents for none could have worked harder in the direction of international goodwill than Sir William Hornell, the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso and Mr. T. B. Wilson. By their example they have made the local club a truly international gathering where everyone feels thoroughly at home. It is to be hoped that the spirit displayed by them will spread rapidly through the Colony so that understanding will replace suspicion to the happiness of everyone concerned.

In another direction too, the Rotary Club has done and is doing good work. The Children's Playgrounds in the Colony, we venture to think, would not have been the success it is to-day had it not been for the support given to the scheme by the Hong Kong Rotary Club. Their consideration for poor children has taken a very appropriate form this year and regular outings are being arranged for the orphans and blind children. A more laudable form of charity would be difficult to conceive.

In another respect also, the public is indebted to the Rotary Club. While every speech does not touch the same high standard, the club has been responsible for providing the reading public and those who are fortunate enough to own wireless sets, with some very entertaining and, quite often, instructive addresses. The eloquence of Dr. Morwood still lingers in the memory of those who heard him. The wit and humour displayed upon other occasions proved equally agreeable, while instructive talks on matters of local interest frequently figure on the programmes. The programme committee deserves the compliments of the community for their untiring supply of orators.

Undoubtedly Rotary is serving a useful purpose in Hong Kong and in course of time the influence of the Club is bound to radiate upon other sections of the community. There are other organisations in the Colony whose objects are very similar to that of Rotary and from all sides there are indications that the residents of the future will live here in greater peace and concord than those who have gone before them.

CANTON HEAT WAVE

Heavy Rain Brings Relief

(From Our Special Correspondent,
Canton, July 18.

After bringing discomfort and suffering to the people in Shanghai and North China, the heat wave struck Canton last night. It was really the humidity that brought a sleepless night to many Canton residents.

Reuter came this morning, when a heavy rain fell and cooled the atmosphere. A moderate west wind trailing through the wet space developed into a nice breeze. Although the sun emerged following the cessation of the downpour, to-day is not so hot as the past few days.

Last night was the hottest with mercury sticking at 87 degrees Fahrenheit. The highest temperature in day time was 90 degrees. The heat was not felt until the past four days, for in the previous week showers came down at least once a day. Strong south wind drove away much of the heat.

But showers did not come during the earlier part of the week. Hence the sweltering weather was on in full swing. The hot days were blessings to the beach clubs, flower boats and other pleasure craft, buses, rickshaws, cold drink parlours and fruit stalls. They are doing more business during these hot days and nights.

Notwithstanding the ban on mixed bathing, people flock to the beaches and cool off in the water. It is still possible for men and women to swim together in the beaches in Tungshan. Rickshaw coolies and bus companies do not mind the heat, because they are doing more business.

According to the Chinese calendar, the hottest day will be next Sunday, July 23. After that date, the calendar says, the weather will cool down, but generally August is also a hot month.

MRS. MCADOO'S DIVORCE

Granted After Quick Hearing

Los Angeles, July 18.

After only a five minutes hearing, the Superior Court granted Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, daughter of the late President Wilson, a divorce from Senator William McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, on grounds of incompatibility.

The Court approved of the property settlement which was not made public, and granted Mrs. McAdoo the custody of the children.

The "Associated Press" understands there will be an enquiry into the speediness of the proceedings, but the presiding judge is of the opinion that the decree will not be invalidated. —Reuter.

COMING NAVAL CONFERENCE

Other Questions
Excluded

London, July 18.

The Conservative Member for Dudley, Mr. J. D. B. Joel, asked Sir John Simon in the House of Commons to-day whether the coming Naval Conference would be mindful of the original terms extended by President Harding on the occasion of the first Washington Conference. That Conference also discussed Pacific and Far Eastern questions.

Sir John Simon replied that "as far as I am aware it is not proposed that the Conference discuss other than naval problems." —Reuter.

PROPELLORS FOR NEW CUNARDER

London, July 17.

The first of the four propellers designed for the great new Cunarder No. 534 was taken from London docks by steamer to-day to be fitted to the liner at Clydebank. It weighed 35 tons, had 118 square feet of surface, four blades, and cost £7,000. The propeller was lifted on the steamer by a floating crane. —British Wireless.

NEW CENTRAL LIBRARY

Opened By The King

London, July 17.

Their Majesties the King and Queen were enthusiastically welcomed by great crowds when they visited Manchester to-day to open the new central library, which accommodates one million volumes, and which cost £425,000 to build. The building, for which Mr. Vincent Harris was architect, is constructed on a circular design, and embodies many structural innovations.

In performing the opening ceremony the King mentioned that the library was the largest in Great Britain, provided by local authority, and remarked "At no time were the demands upon the civic spirit of local communities greater than they are to-day, and in no department of our national life is the spirit of public service more clearly manifested than in the sphere of local Government." —British Wireless.

PIRATES RELEASED

Peking, July 18.

The 18 remaining Chinese captives, who were taken from the s.s. Shuntien when the ship was pirated off the mouth of the Yellow River, on June 17, have now been released and escorted to safety, according to telegrams from Tsinan.

To gain their release, it is stated that General Han Fu Chu promised to incorporate the pirates in the regular forces. —Reuter.

GOING ABROAD IDEA

Invitation To Be Declined

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, July 18. Although Nanking is sending Mr. Sun Fo to the South to urge Mr. Hu Han Min to go abroad, he will decline the invitation. It was learned to-day.

The political situation here and the relations between Nanking and Canton will reach a climax by the convocation of the Fifth National Congress of the Kuomintang at Nanking in November, and Mr. Hu's advice is being sought by the political and military leaders to cope with the situation.

Whether the semi-independent position of Kwangtung and Kwangsi will be continued or abolished depends upon the decision of the Fifth National Congress. The leaders here naturally wish to prolong the present regime and count a good deal on the advice of Mr. Hu Han Min to manoeuvre for the best position.

Therefore, between now and the meeting of the Fifth Congress, Mr. Hu will remain on bridge to navigate the South-west ship of state, and in no case he will go below.

For the present, the military leaders in Kwangtung and Kwangsi are thrown together by force of circumstances. In compliance with the wishes of the National Government, they have made some efforts to subdue the Communists in Kwangsi, but on the political side they have tacitly supported the views of the Kuomintang veterans.

These "elder statesmen" succeeded in urging Dr. Wang Chung Hui, judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague, to come to Canton and inform them the attitude of the Powers towards China, Japan and Manchuria. They believe that international opinion is favourable to the continued Chinese resistance to Japan, and expect Dr. Wang to confirm this view.

LUNCHEON TO MR. LI MING

Farewell in London

London, July 18.

The Chinese Minister gave a farewell luncheon to Mr. Li Ming, who came to London for the marriage of his daughter Beadie to Dr. Sze Ming Sze. Mr. Li Ming is leaving to-morrow for France, Germany, Italy and thence to America on August 22. He is due in Shanghai on October 10.

The guests at the luncheon included the Vice-President of the Judicial Yuan who arrived last evening, Dr. Alfred Sze, Mr. Winter-ton, Chairman of the Chinese Committee of the Commons, Sir Robert Kindersley, Sir Charles Addis, Mr. Strickland and Mr. Edwin Haward. —Reuter.

RAW MATERIALS IN GERMANY

Evidence of Acute Position

Berlin, July 18.

Further evidence of the seriousness of the position in respect of raw materials is afforded by the publication of an order forbidding the sale until August 1 of tyres for motor cars and motor cycles in stock.

On July 18 returns of all stocks in the hands of the factories and dealers must be submitted to the Government, and after August 1 sales will be regulated in accordance with these figures.

Stocks may be replenished only with tyres manufactured after July 18, and it is presumed that henceforward rubber will be more sparingly used. —Reuter.

ACTIVITY IN TINPLATE

London Journal's Views

London, July 18.

The considerable increase of activity in the world's tinplate industry is believed by the "Financial Times" to be the outcome of signing an international agreement regulating quotas and prices.

Representatives of France, Italy, Germany, the United States and South Wales took two months to arrive at a scheme. The principal features emerging from highly complicated details yet to be published are firstly, establishment of a basic price of eighteen shillings which compares with the present price of 17/3d in Wales; secondly, allotment of quotas for signatory countries; and thirdly, a decision to arrange a scheme for international c.i.f. prices. —Reuter.

ARBITRATION IN THE GENERAL STRIKE

Disapproval From Left Wing Leaders

San Francisco, July 18

The Left Wing leaders and longshoremen are roaring with disapproval at the arbitration resolution.

The Australian, Mr. Harris Bridges, head of the strike Committee, declares the resolution was "Railroaded." He alleges many "unofficial" delegates slipped in to the conference in the interval.

The Longshoremen are described as resolutely opposed to arbitration on their claim to control hiring halls. They claim that the General Strike Committee cannot anyhow call off the strike, but can only recommend calling it off.

Mr. Kidwell, Secretary of the General Committee, one of the moderate employers who will meet later to-day to decide their attitude to the arbitration.—Reuter.

In the meanwhile the key move now is the decision of the waterfront employers who will meet later to-day to decide their attitude to the arbitration.—Reuter.

CITIES AFFECTED

New York, July 17.

Radio operators on ships arriving from Pacific ports will be called on to strike as the ships dock at New York.

A country-wide survey of the strike situation includes: San Francisco, 100,000 unionists striking; Portland, Oregon, 1,500 longshoremen and seamen out and a general walkout threatened; Minneapolis, 7,000 lorry-drivers out and several batteries of the National Guard ordered to stand by; Seattle, 2,400 longshoremen and other marine workers out; Huntsville, Alabama, 10,000 textile workers out.

National Guards at San Francisco are prepared for any emergency, and command 54 miles of waterfront. The city yesterday breakfasted from tins, as fresh foods were unobtainable. City magistrates were seen going to their offices with loaves of bread under their arms and their pockets filled with tins and jars.

A Washington message states that the White House announces that several requests from Chambers of Commerce and other bodies for Presidential intervention have been forwarded to President Roosevelt, but yet there is no indication as to whether the President will curtail his holiday.—Reuter.

MINOR RIOTS OCCUR

San Francisco, July 17.

A number of minor riots have occurred in Oakland, where machine-gunners have been despatched to the waterfront area following reports that bands of terrorists were attempting to wreck shops and intimidate clerks.

A band of "Vigilantes" (citizens who have taken the law into their own hands) has undertaken a series of attacks on the Communist strongholds.

Three hundred and forty suspected agitators have been arrested by the police, who confiscated literature advocating a revolution.—Reuter.

A WRECKING PARTY

San Francisco, July 18.

Vigilantes, armed with clubs and baseball bats, continue to dash around the city in fast cars, attacking alleged Communist "hot spots" and hotly pursued by police who always arrive too late to prevent destruction.

The Vigilantes have smashed windows and furniture and torn down partitions, forcing resisting defenders to flee.

The offices of the Communist organ, the "Daily Worker," were wrecked and the equipment carried off.—Reuter.

ARBITRATION ACCEPTED

San Francisco, July 18.

The General Strike Committee has offered to accept a settlement by arbitration.

The Committee has passed a resolution by 207 voted to 108 advising "longshoremen, marine workers and employers to settle the walk out by arbitration."

The Committee has asked the Governors of California, Oregon and Washington, as well as the Mayors of the affected ports and cities, to appeal to President Roosevelt to act so as to permit the employees and employers to arbitrate on all questions in dispute.

The proposal is contingent upon acceptance by the employers of each group of employees involved in the dispute.—Reuter.

PRICE CUTTING IN COAL

Serious Effect On Trade

London, July 17.

The Secretary for Mines, Mr. Ernest Brown, referred in the House of Commons to-day to the serious effect of price-cutting campaigns in foreign countries, and said that the Mines Department believed that the only permanent solution was to be found in international agreements between coal producers, about markets and prices.

On his Department's initiative, discussions had been opened between the coal-owners of Great Britain and Poland. With regard to the French, a market agreement had been reached, assuring Great Britain of a fair share of the trade.

Representations were also being made to the Belgian Government, with the same object. The reduction of coal exports to Italy was attributable to the loss of the orders for the state railways, and this was one of the subjects at present being discussed.

The Minister said that British mines exported 76,000,000 tons in the last six months of 1933 and this dropped to 55,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1932.

Last year it was 52,500,000 tons, and the latest returns, those for the first six months of this year, showed an increase of about 500,000 tons on the corresponding period of last year.—British Wireless.

The report of July 5 that General Shen Shih Tsai had defeated the Tungans is confirmed by the Tungans falling before the Chinese forces from Urumchi. They are preparing to retire to Khotan from Yarkand, Kashgar, leaving the former Chinese Governor in charge of Kashgar, where all is quiet.—Reuter.

BRITISH WARSHIPS AT SAMOS

Seaplane Conducts Search For Officer's Body

Istanbul, July 18.

The Captain of H.M.S. Devonshire, accompanied by the British Vice-Consul applied to the Turkish Government for permission to search for the body of Surgeon-Lieut. Robinson. Permission was granted and the destroyer flotilla with a seaplane started searching this morning. So far the search has not been successful.

Twelve British warships are now anchored at Port Tigan, Samos, where Sir William Fisher, Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet, has arrived aboard H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth two days ahead of the programme, having curtailed the visit to Cyprus in consequence of the incident.

ROBBERY INCIDENT

In the meanwhile, the British Ambassador, Sir Philip Lorraine, has arrived at Ankara, while the Defence Minister, Zekai Bey, has left for Smyrna. It is believed in consequence of the incident, which closely follows the news of the robbery of the American Professor Borden with his wife by Turkish soldiers. They were cruising in a small boat in the Sea of Marmara, and pitched a tent near the powder factory outside Istanbul. Soldiers at night time pulled down the tent and stole some of Professor Borden's belongings. A complaint was lodged by the American Consul. Subsequently the soldiers were arrested and the articles recovered.—Reuter.

STATEMENT AT COMMONS

London, July 17.

In the House of Commons to-day, Sir John Simon was asked if he could state the circumstances in which a party of British naval officers bathing off the island of Samos were fired on by Turkish soldiers, one British officer being killed.

The Foreign Secretary said that according to reports received by the Admiralty, the boat in question was a skiff belonging to H.M.S. "Devonshire," which was lying off the Greek island of Samos. The skiff had approached under sail to within 100 yards of the Turkish mainland when some ten soldiers appeared, and, according to reports received by the British naval authorities, waved the boat away.

The boat immediately went about, but the soldiers opened fire, killing Surgeon Lieutenant Robinson and slightly wounding Lieutenant Maunsell in the shoulder. The search was being continued for Surgeon Lieutenant Robinson's body.

A GRAVE OCCURRENCE

On hearing of these events, Sir John Simon said he immediately asked the Turkish Ambassador to come to see him, and, after detailing the circumstances to him as far as he knew them, drew attention to the gravity of this occurrence.

Fethi Bey undertook to telegraph immediately to his Government, and the British Ambassador in Turkey had also been instructed to take the matter up with the Turkish Government on similar lines.

Sir John added that he understood the Turkish Ambassador had now received some information and had communicated it to the Foreign Office this morning, but he could not yet give any further details. He was sure the House would join with the Government in regretting this unhappy incident, and in expressing deep sympathy with the relatives.

It is understood that the Captain of H.M.S. "Devonshire" has had an interview with the local Turkish authorities, who are collaborating in the search for the body of the dead officer.—British Wireless.

ANOTHER REPORT

London, July 17.

Questioned in the House of Commons regarding the firing on British naval officers on the island of Samos on Monday, resulting in the death of one officer and the wounding of another, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, said that he had no information beyond what the Admiralty issued on Monday.

He emphasised the fact that the Turkish soldiers waved the boat away. The boat turned, but the soldiers opened fire.

Learning of the incident, Sir John sent for the Turkish Amba-

Simla, July 17.

The German Himalaya Expedition has experienced a heavy blow, according to reports reaching Simla. Two members of the expedition Merkel of Poland and Welzenbach have been missing for several days while three native carriers died. It is reported that a terrific snowstorm separated them from the rest of the expedition and when the storm subsided, a search was immediately begun but so far this has had no results.

The expedition which has already reached an altitude of nearly 23,000 feet immediately halted and is continuing the search. Much anxiety is felt in Berlin for the lost mountaineers.—Transocean Kuo Min.

BRITISH OFFICERS SAFE

Calcutta, July 18.

The British officers attached to the German Himalayan expedition, Captain Sangster and Lieutenant Friar are safe. They had not participated in the climb and are remaining at the base camp.

It is feared that seven porters are dead.—Reuter.

Yesterday's Simla message stated that the German expedition attempting to climb the Himalayan mountain Nangaparbhat has met with disaster in a blizzard. According to the Calcutta newspaper, "Statesman," three members, Merkel, Wieland and Welzenbach, are missing. For several days attempts have been made to rescue them, but these have failed.

TRIP TO THE ARCTIC

Party Leaves London

London, July 17.

The expedition, consisting of members of the Oxford Exploration Club, sailed to-day from London in the 100 ton Norwegian sealer "Signalhorn," in which they are proceeding to Ellesmere Island in the Canadian Arctic.

The party, which is led by Dr. Noel Humphreys, will attempt first a sledge journey across the glaciers into the Grantland unexplored area to the North. A geographical survey will be made, and scientific data will be established at about 500 miles from the pole.

The expedition has been organised by the son of Sir Ernest Shackleton, famous explorer, and is being financially helped by the Royal Geographical Society, Oxford University, and the Canadian Government.

In recent years the Oxford Exploration Club, which is an undergraduate organisation, has sent expeditions to many parts of the world, including Spitzbergen, Lapland, the Pacific Isles, and British Uganda.—British Wireless.

EDUCATION IN CHINA

League Discusses Report

London, July 18.

The League Intellectual Co-operation Committee which discussed the report of Mr. Maurette on his mission to China, pays a tribute to the "breadth and profundity of views" of Mr. Wang Shih Chieh at this work.

The report quotes figures showing a tremendous increase in adult students since 1928 and suggests development and research of the spirit of the best students in higher education. In the case of secondary education, it stresses the desirability of developing technical education based on the requirements of the New China.

It suggests the introduction of small industries, traditional and modern, to enable farmers to add to their income.

It proposes the broadcasting of lectures throughout the country, and finally says that it is essential to develop the system of inspection of schools of all grades, especially primary and secondary.—Reuter.

DOROTHY ROUND

How She Beat
Mlle. Payot

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 4.
Miss Dorothy Round played very impressive lawn tennis to-day in beating Mlle. L. Payot, the Swiss champion, to reach the Wimbledon semi-final. And Miss Helen Jacobs, the American girl, defeated Fraulien Aussen, the German, in 35 minutes. To-day's matches in order of the draw were:
Miss D. E. Round (Great Britain) beat Mlle. L. Payot (Switzerland) 6-4, 6-2.
Miss Sarah Palfrey (U.S.A.) v. Mme. R. Mathieu (France).
Miss Helen Jacobs (U.S.A.) beat Fraulien Aussen (Germany) 6-0, 6-2.
Miss J. Hartigan (Australia) v. Miss M. C. Scriven (Great Britain).

For this occasion Court One became of greater interest than the Centre. Miss Round and Miss Scriven both played there.
Mlle. Mathieu, reached the Wimbledon semi-final in 1930 and 1931, the final in 1932 and the last eight in 1933.
Miss Jacobs had never previously played Fri. Aussen. In the earlier rounds of the present tournament, the American girl had been dropping many more games than the German, who had lost only five in four matches.

Studies in Pleats

A sun-tanned Miss Round came into court with Mlle. Payot attired in that garment which we will agree to call pleated shorts. Her opponent wore a pleated skirt.
Miss Round was a clean and courageous winner in returning the opening service of the match. The rest of game Number 1 was made up mainly of those errors, by both players, natural at the beginning of a match. But, on balance, the English girl was on top and encouraged us by taking the lead at once.

Service proved at first a positive disadvantage to both players, although now and then Mlle. Payot hit an "ace" that a he-man American need not have regarded with shame. Despite this, both girls lost their two opening services before the Swiss girl held hers. Then she proceeded to gain a clear lead by breaking through Miss Round again. The Dudley girl did all she knew to prevent that deadly hostile forehand from functioning.

Mlle. Payot's backhand is, by comparison, a neat and mild stroke, though usually pretty safe. But when she had her chance on the opposite wing she would send her opponent on a retrieving errand into the deep corners and then put the helm hard over.
Largely because her own backhand steadied as the match went on, Miss Round was able to succeed in this tactical duel.
From 2-4 down she won four games in sequence for the opening set.

Miss Round hit with great power and control on both wings, occasionally serving a clear "ace" and cutting down her errors to almost nothing. Mlle. Payot loves to attack; Miss Round found the value of the old military dictum, "that the soul of the defence is the counter-attack."

Dazzling Forehand

In the second set Miss Round won the first three games, the third also after fighting back from love-40. A couple of rare errors cost her the fourth. In hammering home the next game Miss Round showed every sign of going on from strength to strength.

In the following one she flung one dazzling forehand on to the chalk of the baseline, and followed this up with a service "ace." She was as light of foot as a fawn, and often achieved the apparently impossible.

In the seventh game—leading 5-1—Miss Round was within two points of the match. The end was delayed. In the next game two more match points came her way, but she needed only one of them. Mlle. Payot put a fairly easy drive half-way up the net.

Miss Perry Scriven

To come—a relatively unknown player to English onlookers—newly on to a show court for a "quarter final" is an ordeal for any player. Miss Joan Hartigan, only 19 and playing Miss Peggy Scriven, had to face it to-day. Perhaps that fact was due the double fault with which she opened the match. She holds her racket with the so-called Australian grip, and uses the same face for hitting her shots on both wings. The forehand is a shrewd "blow" indeed, the other not nearly so good. The same comment of

LOCUSTS STILL ACTIVENinety-Five Towns
Infested

Manila, July 14.
Ninety-six towns in 15 provinces are still infested with locusts, according to a report submitted yesterday by Dr. Manuel L. Roxas, director of plant industry, to the department of agriculture and commerce. As many as 1,800 hectares are covered by the infestation, no provinces and only seven towns have been entirely freed.

However, the whole locust situation is not as serious as the infestation for the same period of time last year, according to Dr. Roxas. He said that last year 240 municipalities and 5,000 hectares were infested. The swarms this year are not dense and devastating. Little damage to crops has been reported.

Dr. Roxas said that efforts are being made to cope with the preposterous.

The provinces which received the worst infestations are Samar, 509 hectares; Capiz, 470 hectares; Masbate, 342 hectares; and Leyte, 316 hectares.

However, due to lack of facilities in transportation, reports from some provinces like Cotabato and Samar are often delayed.

Dr. Gonzalo Merino, chief of the plant sanitation division of the bureau, who is now supervising the locust control work, wired yesterday that conditions in Albay and Sorsogon are no longer alarming. He is going to the Camarines provinces to-day to supervise the work there.

course, applies to Miss Scriven, who won the first set at 6-3.

Miss Hartigan did not seem nervous for very long. She lost her opening service game but took Miss Scriven's and then held on to her own for a 2-1 lead. Miss Scriven won the next four games. Two double faults at that stage spoiled her chance of ending the set immediately. She did so, however, in the following game. Her opponent was considerate enough to hit her drive, at a vital point, a yard over the side-line.

As an exhibition of stroke play the tennis on neither side of the net could compare with that seen in the Round-Payot match. It lacked grace, and appeared ordinary by comparison. Nor had it even the prosaic virtue of accuracy. Once Miss Scriven, in rushing wide out for a ball, tumbled full length near a linesman's chair. She was none the worse for the fall.

JACKIE BROWN
Spends Night In Cell
(Special Air Mail Service)
London, July 4.
The world's fly-weight boxing champion, Jackie Brown (24), who lives at Bramhall, Cheshire and surrendered to a warrant late on Monday night appeared at the Manchester City Police Court yesterday charged with an assault on Louis Tarchman, of Choir Street, Lower Broughton, Manchester.

Brown pleaded not guilty, and was remanded until Friday on bail of £40.
Tarchman was treated at the Jewish Hospital, Manchester, for injuries after an incident in Bury New Road on Saturday night, and the following morning a warrant was issued for Brown's arrest. It was not served until Monday night, when Brown walked into the Wiltshire Street Police Station, where he was placed in a cell and remained there until he was taken into court.

He was then charged, "that he did unlawfully assault and beat Tarchman on July 1."
The only evidence given yesterday was by Warrant Officer Bate-man, who said Brown surrendered himself the previous night, and in answer to the charge said "Not guilty."

Entitled to Ask for Bail
Mr. J. Yaffe (defending) said he had no questions to ask, and he had no objection to a remand except that Brown had spent the night in the cells, and he thought he was entitled to ask for bail.

Mr. Cyril Simons (prosecuting for Tarchman) said he had no objection to bail, and Brown was remanded until Friday on bail in one surety of £20 and his own surety of £20. Bail was immediately forthcoming, and Brown, who looked very tired, was released.
Tarchman, who was in court, had his head bandaged, and his right ear was particularly heavily covered.

Mr. Henry Fleming, Brown's manager, Mr. Dave Lumiansky, his manager abroad, and Mr. Jack Madde, boxing manager at Belle Vue, where Brown has won so many of his fights, were also present.

PRIVY COUNCIL
AND PIRATESK.C. Quotes A Trial
Of 1696

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, July 4.
The problem of whether robbery is an essential feature of piracy was argued before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council yesterday.

The question arose out of the trial of a number of Chinese at Hong Kong for piracy. They claimed and fired on a Chinese cargo vessel, but a British warship intervened.
They were found guilty when charged before a judge and jury, but on appeal to a court composed of two judges in Hong Kong, the latter decided that the crime of piracy had not been committed, as there was no robbery.

The Attorney-General (Sir Thomas Inskip, K.C.) appeared to argue that robbery was not a necessary ingredient of the crime of piracy. Sir Leslie Scott, K.C. (for the Secretary of State for the Colonies) appeared to urge the contrary.

The Judicial Committee hearing the matter was composed of the Lord Chancellor (Viscount Sankey), Lord Atkin, Lord Tomlin, Lord Macmillan, and Lord Wright.

British Definition of Piracy
Sir Leslie Scott quoted from a judgment of Lord Blackburn, who stated there were offences called piracy by the law of some countries which were not piracy by the law of nations.

According to the Criminal Law of England every British subject was deemed to be a pirate who gave aid or comfort upon the sea to the King's enemies, during a war, or transported slaves on the high seas.

But this law could not be enforced against foreigners unless they were pirates according to the law of nations.

The earliest recorded case in the English Courts in which the crime of piracy according to the law of nations was defined, was that of

BIG GOLF BET
WON10 Rounds In 889
Strokes

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 4.
Capt. George Morris, a well-known sportsman, and a member of the Devonshire, Crookford's and other London clubs, has won his wager of £800 that he would play ten rounds of golf within twenty-four hours in less than 900 strokes, writes a correspondent.

I saw him accomplish this amazing feat on the Walmer and Kingsdown course near Deal, to-day.

The number of strokes taken was 889 and the time occupied, including stops, was 17hr 30min. The ten rounds were as follows: 88, 85, 84, 86, 88, 84, 97, 95, 85, 97.

The event occasioned enormous interest in West-end sporting circles and a sum of over £2,000 in bets has changed hands. Capt. Morris, an international contract bridge player and a brother of E. H. Morris, the former Essex cricket captain, is 3½ well-built man, 38 years of age. He has a golf handicap of 10 and lives in a house facing the eighteenth fairway.

Many Missed Putts
The first hole is 33yds, and his opening drive disappeared in the direction of mid-off. The ball was found, and his next shot, played with a jigger, was only a yard from the flag. Capt. Morris missed the putt, indeed, had his putting been reasonably sound his aggregate score for the ten rounds would have been many strokes less.

I walked a few holes with Capt. Morris, and was struck with his amazing fitness. After three rounds played without stopping he adjourned for half an hour's rest, and partook of three eggs beaten up in milk.

It was only after completing the sixth round that Capt. Morris troubled to change his shoes. He then took lunch, consisting of lettuce and ginger beer.

"I feel just a little weary," he confessed, "but I have no doubt I shall succeed, with lots to spare."

However, after the eighth round signs of weariness became apparent, and Capt. Morris had his first stimulant.

Capt. Morris walked 40 miles. He used the same ball for five rounds, and then decided it was time to have a new one. His equipment consisted of eight clubs—driver, spoon, No. 2 iron, No. 4 iron, jigger, masher, mashie-niblick and putter.

On June 18 last at Stoke Poges, Capt. R. F. H. Norman, of the Portland Club, accomplished ten rounds in 960 strokes. The time occupied was 16½ hours, the player walking 45 miles.

VALLEY GOLF

Adamson Cup Competition

Returning a card of 85-14-71, T. D. Paton qualified for the July competition of the Adamson Cup at Happy Valley, played between July 6 and 17. There were 20 entries.

This singles and foursomes competitions at Happy Valley are now in progress. Competitors should note that all dates for closing of each round have been put on 14 days. Should the course again be unfit for play, times may be further extended.

The King v. Dawson in 1696. Sir Charles Hodge, charging the grand jury at that trial, said piracy was only a res publica for robbery.

Sir Leslie Scott quoted definitions of piracy in other trials, including the case of the Magellan, pirated in 1833, and said writers on the Common Law and on the law of nations universally defined piracy according to the laws of nations as robbery upon the seas.

The Lord Chancellor (to Sir Leslie Scott): Take a case where persons board a ship and kill everyone, but leave without stealing anything; isn't that piracy?

Sir Leslie Scott said from his argument it followed that that would not be piracy, according to the laws of nations.

Lord Atkin: Or if a ship were shot below the water line and sunk, but nothing stolen from it, would not that be piracy?

Sir Leslie Scott replied that the authorities seemed to agree that there must be robbery before there could be piracy, according to the law of nations.

Australians And Yorks Draw

London, July 17.

Four County cricket matches and the meeting between the Australians and Yorks at Sharncliffe were among the further fixtures concluded to-day.

Yorks drew with the Australians, the full scores being as follows:
Yorks: 340 (Leyland 34, A. B. Sellers 104) and 157 (Wood 59).
Australians: 348 (D. G. Bradman 140, W. M. Woodful 54, Bowes 7 for 100) and 28 for 1.

County Matches
At Blackheath, Kent beat Surrey by 4 wickets.

Surrey: 240 and 355 (Gregory 104, Freeman 8 for 136).
Kent: 182 and 418 for 5 (Woolley 132).

At Taunton, Lancashire secured first innings points from Somerset. Lancashire: 481 for 6 dec. (Watson 178, Iddon 174) 181 for 3.

Somerset: 431 (J. Lee 101).
At Workop, Nottingham secured first innings points from Worcestershire.

Notts: 540 (Keeton 223).
Worcester: 285.

At Neath, Glamorgan secured first innings points from Essex. Glamorgan: 293 and 232 for 4 dec. (Dyson 104 not out).
Essex: 184 and 182 for 4—Reuter.

KAMIS BEATEN

In Singapore Tennis Championships

Singapore, July 10.
Lim Bong Soo and Chua Leong will meet in the final of the Singapore Lawn Tennis Championship at the Padang on Thursday. Neither had much difficulty in getting through their semi-finals yesterday. Bong Soo beating Loon Chong 6-3, 6-2, and Choon Leong disposing of Kamis, the popular little Malay player by 6-0, 6-4.

Loon Chong tried to make a fight of it, but he found Bong Soo unshaken and steady no matter how much he tried to force the pace. Bong Soo lost the opening game but he took the next two. Loon Chong drew even at two games all but Bong Soo established the lead again and Loon Chong was unable to snatch one more game out of the remaining four.

Again in the second set Loon Chong tried to hustle the champion but without success. Bong Soo lost the second game after winning the first but he took the next three in a row. Loon Chong then won a game but lost the next two.

Choon Long in Form
Kamis appeared to be suffering from a bad attack of stage fright when he faced the veteran Chua Choon Leong.

He tried to force matters, but Choon Leong was easily his superior at the net and he beat Kamis with well placed half-volleys almost every time the Malay tried to bring off a winner. Kamis made the mistake of tempting Choon Leong by lobbing the ball to him, for the Chinese made full use of such openings to bring his forceful overhead shots into play, and Kamis was nearly always unable to recover.

Though he took the first set without the loss of a single game, Choon Leong did not have quite as easy a time as would appear on the face of it. Practically every game went to "deuce."

In the second set Kamis was the fresher of the two and it looked as though he might have a chance of winning through. If he could force Choon Leong into a third set, he stood up well in the first four games his driving and strong back-hand work saw him through to lead by three games to one.

Superior Counterfeit
Choon Leong drew level at three games all and after that his experience and superior counterfeits generally was definitely asserted. Kamis made a stand when the games were five-three in favour of Choon Leong, and a strong baseline duel ended in his favour.

With the score 5-4 against him, Kamis still had a fighting chance, but Choon Leong made certain of the other game in which Kamis failed to get up to his side-line drives.

ORDERS FOR NEW SHIPPINGBig Programme
By P. & O.

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 4.
It is understood that the P. & O. Steam Navigation group is contemplating placing substantial orders for new shipping.

Funds for this purpose have been provided by the sale to an important City group, headed by Baring Bros., of 1,500,000 Ordinary shares in William Cory and Son held by P. & O. and some of its subsidiaries.

At the current market price of Wm. Cory shares, the amount involved in the deal is between £5,000,000 and £6,000,000. A public issue of the shares will be made.

The disposal of the holding will not affect the long-standing relations between the P. & O. group and Wm. Cory and Son.

The announcement, writes a City correspondent, is of great importance to the shipping and ship-building industries. To the former it indicates the hopes of the P. & O. group of an improvement in international trade; to the latter it offers prospects of increasing activity.

ADMIRAL LORD READING

Old Ceremony At The Grand
Court Of The Cinque Ports

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 4.
With all the customary rites, Lord Reading was to-day duly installed as Lord Warden and Admiral of the Cinque Ports at a grand court of Shewpay held in the grounds of Dover College.

The office and the ceremony date back many centuries of English history.

Lord Reading is believed to be the 156th occupant of the office in succession, but whereas in the olden days the Cinque Ports furnished ships and men to defend the coast and in return were granted many special privileges, the old "wooden walls" have made gay for dreadnought and submarines and most of the privileges have disappeared.

Lord Reading wore the full dress uniform of the Admiral of the Cinque Ports.

continued the Crown prosecutor. "They forced him into a car and seated him in the back between the two robbers. It was then discovered that nobody could drive and the robbers were in a dilemma. They made him go back into the house, still by force, and while they were in the passage the Police arrived.

One man, not in custody, escaped over the roofs. The accused was seized by the Police and in his pocket was found a revolver and ten rounds of ammunition, and three one hundred dollar notes. He has a criminal record, a very serious one, apart from his return from banishment.

"I submit to your Lordship that this man deserves a heavier sentence than the man with whom your Lordship has just dealt.

His Lordship: Has he been banished more than once?

Mr. Lockhart-Smith:—As far as we know this is the first time he has returned. He was banished for life on September 2, 1920. This man was the organizer of the gang.

Heavy Sentences

The Judge (to prisoner):—You have a very bad record, going back to 1916. You have been banished from the Colony for life and you return here again and commit other serious offences. On the count of robbery by two or more, the sentence of this Court is seven years with hard labour. On the count of possession of arms, five years concurrent, and on the count of returning from banishment, three years' hard labour, consecutive.

On the application of Mr. Lockhart-Smith, His Lordship made an order for the return of the three $100 notes found in the prisoner's possession to the complainant.

BRITISH REPLY

To U.S. On Debts

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 4.
The following is the text of the reply of the British Government to the United States Government's note of June 12 about the War Debt problem:

"After careful consideration of the Note which you addressed to Sir R. Lindsay on June 12, H.M. Government in the United Kingdom feel that there are two questions to which it may be useful to make further reference:

(1) H.M. Government would observe that in their Note of the 4th instant they did not state that the payment of the British War Debt was legally contingent upon the payment of the debts due to them.

"What they said was that it would be impossible for them to contemplate a situation in which they would be called upon to honour in full their war obligations to others while continuing to suspend all demands for the payment of the war obligations due to them. This was a statement not of law but of fact.

Impracticable Proposal
(2) As regards a suggestion of payments in kind, H.M. Government would recall that the experience of German Reparations showed that transfer of difficulties are not solved by a system of deliveries in kind.

As the committee presided over by Gen. Dawes pointed out in 1924, in their financial effects deliveries in kind are not really distinguishable from cash payments.

In fact, the economic objections to cash payments would apply with equal force to deliveries in kind unless those deliveries were to consist of indigenous products of the debtor country (excluding re-exports), and unless they were to be accepted by the creditor country and consumed by it in addition to the goods taken from the debtor country in the normal course of trade.

"If the United Kingdom were not to receive payment for goods exported on commercial account, her exchange resources available for the purchase of cotton and other goods from America would be still further diminished.

"Therefore, while not unwilling to give further consideration to the possibilities in this direction, H.M. Government do not at present see any method of putting such a plan into practice which would be likely to commend itself to the U.S. Government.

Discussion Welcomed
"In the view of H.M. Government the primary question for settlement is the amount that should be paid, having regard to all the circumstances of these debts."

"They regret that up to the present it has not been possible to make further progress in this mat-

SHIPBUILDING TRADE*Seventeen Ships
Under Construction

The striking fact that no fewer than 17 ships of widely differing types are now under construction in the Harland and Wolff shipbuilding establishments at Belfast and Glasgow, whilst two large passenger liners are in hand for reconditioning and lengthening with a view to increasing their speed, was revealed by Mr. F. E. Rebbeck, chairman of Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Limited. In view of the fact, he said, that three out of four of all available slips in the country were at present empty, it was all the more satisfactory that they should have obtained this work for it would help to keep their yards, engine works, foundries and associated steel works occupied for some time; also, and what was of so much importance, it would give employment to a considerable number of men, who would be enabled to maintain their productive efficiency which was so essential for the good of the company and the industry.

The orders recently placed for Admiralty tonnage, he added, made a very welcome addition to the work in hand throughout the country. Pending the arrival of the day when ships for the Merchant Navy would be ordered in greater numbers, the placing of those contracts was very helpful to the shipbuilding and engineering trades and industry generally. The orders which had been placed for merchant ships, however, must not be taken to indicate a general revival in shipbuilding, although they might be taken as indicating a turn for the better; and, of course, the passage of time brought them slowly but surely nearer the point where wastage and obsolescence of the world's tonnage would necessitate new ships being ordered in increasing numbers.

The general improvement, however, for which they were all looking, was primarily dependent on the return of a normal flow of international trade; and that was not likely to be a rapid process, having regard to the feelings of nationalism and self-sufficiency now manifested by the nations of the world. It would be appreciated that the very low prices which had been ruling were inevitable under the competition that existed, due to the capacity of the industry being so much in excess of present-day needs.

VETERAN DIPLOMAT

Dies At Age Of 79

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 4.
The death was announced yesterday of Sir William Conyngham Greene, Ambassador to Japan from 1912 till 1919. He died at Lymington, aged 79.

Sir Conyngham Greene was born in 1854, the eldest son of Mr. Richard Greene. His mother was a daughter of the third Baron Plunket.

He was educated at Harrow, and went up to Pembroke College, Oxford, in 1873. In 1917 he was elected an Honorary Fellow of his College.

In 1877 he entered the Foreign Office, and three years later was appointed acting Third Secretary at Athens, and subsequently at Stuttgart.

Created K.C.B. in 1900
After serving as Second Secretary at The Hague, at Brussels, and at Teheran as Secretary of the Legation, Sir Conyngham Greene was appointed Agent at Pretoria, with the rank of Charge d'Affaires in the Diplomatic Service.

Here he served from 1896 till 1899, in the difficult times that preceded the outbreak of the South African War. In 1900 he was created a K.C.B., and in the following year he became British Minister in Switzerland, afterwards serving in a similar capacity in Roumania and Denmark.

Sir Conyngham Greene married in 1894 Lily Frances, youngest daughter of the fifth Earl of

DAWES AND YOUNG LOAN BONDS*Statement By German Government

Berlin, July 17.
In connection with the differences that arose between the German Government and the trustees of the Dawes and Young Loans, the following official statement was issued on Tuesday, setting forth the view of the German Government: "In consequence of the well-known state of foreign currency reserves in the Reichsbank, the amount of foreign currencies due on July 15 for the service of these loans could not be placed at the disposal of the trustees. The sums due amounted to 4.22 million Reichsmarks in the case of the Young Loan. The payment to individual loan holders is only due on October 15 in the case of the Dawes Loan and on December 1 in the case of the Young Loan. The German Government has, therefore, approached the Governments of the countries where the loans were issued in order to obtain an improvement on the foreign currency situation and consequently of Germany's power to effect the transfer agreement. This has already been reached with Great Britain.

Reichsmark Equivalent

In order to place the security of the loan service, as far as procuring sums in Reichsmarks equivalent to the required amounts in foreign currencies is concerned, beyond all question, the German Government has paid to the credit of the various countries in question in special accounts at the Reichsbank equivalent to the sums in Reichsmarks. Besides this a sum of 4.3 million marks was held up by the trustees out of certain earmarked revenues as security in respect to the Dawes loan service. Despite the action taken by the German Government to safeguard the interests of the holders of the Dawes and Young Loans, the trustees of the Dawes Loan informed the Reichsbank on Monday that they would not liberate the amount of 4.3 million marks and moreover cancelled the standing instructions they had formerly given to the Reichsbank, according to which the Reichsbank always automatically returned to the Reich all earmarked receipts from the taxes on tobacco, beer, sugar and brandy, as soon as foreign currencies for the loan service had been paid to the trustees. These receipts are only earmarked as security in the case of the Dawes Loan, and the total of every month is up to 200 million Reichsmarks, that is to say more than fifty-fold the monthly service of the Dawes Loan. Moreover, the monthly service of the Dawes Loan contains very considerable sums for amortisation.

Trustees' Action

The trustees then blocked the total amount of earmarked revenues although these represent Reichsmark receipts and although the monthly service of the Dawes Loan was due on July 15, it had already been secured twice over. Furthermore, in addition to the 50 per cent. sums required for meeting the service of the Dawes Loan due on October 15, it had already been lodged with the Bank for International Settlements in foreign currencies. The procedure on the part of the trustees can only be characterised as an unnecessary irritation or an attempt to exert under pressure.

"The Reichsmark payments are not endangered. The transfer does not depend alone on Germany's capacity to pay. The mode of procedure adopted by the trustees would have withdrawn a considerable part of the State revenue from its intended purpose. That would have meant that the discharge for her vital tasks by the German Government would have been imperilled. In order to avert these dangers, and since the procedure of the trustees could not be harmonised with the general legal principle that the existing contract of rights must not be exercised in an unnecessarily irritating manner, the Reich Government took the necessary steps to assure the utilisation of the receipts for the purposes for which they are reserved."—Transocean Kuo Min.

CZECH ARMS TRADE

Prague, July 17.

That the armament business is booming in Czechoslovakia was proved unmistakably by the official statistics of the arms exports published on Tuesday.

These show that the deliveries of ammunition by the Czech factories last year leaped 300 per cent. For the first five months of the present year, the export of raw materials from Czechoslovakia exceeded that for the whole of 1932.—Transocean Kuo Min.

"CHINESE JUNK" MYSTERY SOLVED

A Colonel's Yacht

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 4.

The "Chinese Junk" mystery has now been cleared up. Deal was much exercised in mind over the week-end by the washing up on the beach of a yacht-like craft, fashioned like a Chinese junk, but much damaged.

The yacht Shui Ting, it is now learned, belonged to Lt.-Col. H. Clifford Wallis, of Fitzroy Lodge, Kingsgate, Broadstairs, who today said: "The yacht is a model of a Chinese junk, and was brought home to me a year ago by an officer friend in the R.A.F."

"I understand that the yacht is too badly damaged to warrant my fetching it home from Deal. The Shui Ting broke apart from its moorings in Joss Bay, in Kingsgate, over a week ago, during a strong gale. That was the last I heard of it until I was told of it being salvaged at Deal during the week-end."

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY & CO.

New York, July 17.
The American Oriental Finance Corporation report through their New York agents, Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co., states:—

Stocks:—Better resistance to the market was shown but any impression change for the better seems to call for some clearing up of the San Francisco strike situation.

Wheat:—The strength of Corn and also the strength of the Winnipeg market encouraged buyers but offerings were still confined to profit-taking and hedging operations. The latter deals were lighter owing to small receipts. The weather is hot and dry. There are some sensational private reports in the South West which have been advanced on the condition of the Corn country. Heavy selling and profit-taking caused a late reaction.

Cotton:—Under small but constant buying prices went into new high levels absorbing selling limits. Europe and the South also sold. The West Cotton Belt is still dry with high temperatures. The market was sold off during the latter part of the session but there was a good demand on set-backs.

Silver:—About mid-day evidence of control buying appeared at somewhat higher prices, tending to absorb speculative liquidation for September. Banking interests also absorbed some September sales against sales of March at a difference of about 120 points.

The following telegram was received from New York during the A.O.F.C. night service:—

The market was lower at the opening but is holding no evidence of liquidation of large blocks of shares.

In the Silver market there is no trading. Bids and offers continue to remain wide apart. The reported sale of 100,000,000 ounces of silver by the Indian Government has been officially denied.

In the Cotton market, selling is scattered and realising is moderate. There is some Trade demand, with also some speculative and investment buying.

New York, July 17.
Messrs. S. E. Levy & Company's report, through their New York agents, Messrs. White, Weld & Co., states:—

Stocks:—Despite the dull state of business and the labour disturbances, there are no signs of any volume of liquidation, though the dragging tendency of the market is increasingly discouraging to security-holders. While we still believe that gradual purchases should be made during this period, we foresee little prospect of any change until business, the strike situation and the intentions of the Administration are more clarified.

Cotton:—The forecast of unfavourable weather brought considerable speculative buying. The weather still dominates the market, but we would continue to adopt a cautious trading policy. Purchases are recommended only on sharp setbacks.

Silver:—The market is quiet. Rubber:—The market presents a tired appearance. Some trade and commission-house buying tended to off-set profit-taking. Unless renewed speculative buying enters, we believe that prices might sag somewhat lower.

Wheat:—Heavy speculative local buying, with continued hot weather, caused an up-swing in prices. We still recommend purchases on recessions.

Corn:—Private estimates are bullish and we believe in the purchase of corn here.

Bonds:—The edge is off high-grades for the present and prices are easier. The market for second-grades is also lower.

The following telegrams were received in the course of the S. E. Levy & Co. night service:—

Cotton:—The weather, in the West is clear, with the temperatures in the 100's, resulting in damage to the crops, while the forecast is the same elsewhere. Conditions locally are hot and unsettled. Grains: The weather in the South is mostly torrid and there has been little relief. The Northern corn-belt is cooler and there have been some showers. The Spring wheat is heating up.

A continued good demand from the mills for cash wheat explains the spread in prices.

The prevailing weather, and the forecast in the principal cotton areas is bullish, but increasing profit-taking is to be expected on all advances.

Brokers' Loans for the week amounted to $17,751,000,000.

The distant outlook is bullish and we recommend buying on set-backs.

SHANGHAI HEAT RECORD

Siccawei Thermometers Reach 104.4

Shanghai, July 13.

Setting a new record temperature for Shanghai, Siccawei Observatory's thermometers shortly before noon yesterday reached 104.4 degrees Fahrenheit. The temperature at the Cathedral was also a record, being 104.2.

Up to yesterday, Shanghai's average daily maximum temperatures since rain last fell, on June 24, were 100.1 registered at Siccawei and 99.3 registered at the Cathedral. Setting what is hoped to be the climax of the second part of the heat wave, yesterday's high figure was recorded when rain appeared imminent.

Puffs of thunder echoed over the western district, while the sky over Siccawei and in the direction of Minghong grew lead coloured, and banks of clouds piled up.

The thermometer steadily mounted, and a few minutes before noon reached its record figure, subsequently declining a little. The thunderstorm, however, refused to break, and for the second time in a fortnight Shanghai missed the downpour which had been hoped for.

Situation Serious
Crops in the neighbourhood are in a serious condition because of the drought. The last rain, 18 days ago, was insignificant—a mere .02 inches. Since January 1, the total rainfall at Shanghai, as recorded at Siccawei, has been 15.73 inches, as compared with the 6' year average for the same period of 25.03 inches.

Rice has become expensive, and in this connection the Shanghai Agricultural Association has submitted a petition to the Social Affairs Department of the Municipal Government of Greater Shanghai, requesting that rice merchants should be ordered not to increase prices any further, in the interests of the general public. The Association requests that an order be issued prohibiting the price from being raised above $10 per picul.

The Roman Catholic Church in the Shanghai area is offering prayers for rain. Bishop Hausssee has issued a memorandum to all priests requesting them to hold special prayers during Holy Mass, for a period of nine days.

Mr. A. M. Marshall, chief engineer officer, Leesang, has gone chief engineer officer, Hsin Chang.

COLLEGE OF ARMS EXHIBITION

The Heralds And Their Charter

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, July 4.

The Duke of Norfolk, the Earl-Marshall of England, will open on Wednesday an "Exhibition of Objects of Heraldic and Historical Interest," at the College of Arms, in Queen Victoria-street, London. The exhibition will be open to the public from Thursday for three weeks, the hours of admission being from ten to six. The exhibition is to commemorate the fact that it is the 450th anniversary of the incorporation of the Heralds by charter in the reign of King Richard III, and it is the first occasion on which such an exhibition has taken place.

In view of the fact that it is the Duke of Norfolk who is launching the venture, it is of interest that among the documents on exhibition will be the original warrant of Thomas Duke of Norfolk, dated July 18, 1568, laying down the conduct of the College of Heralds. The exhibits are being shown in the Earl-Marshall's Court and in an adjoining room, and they will cover a period of some 700 years, the earliest heraldic roll dating back as far as 1245. The earliest pedigree roll is dated 1298.

One interesting thing about the exhibition is that, in looking for documents to be shown in it, quite a number have been found whose existence had been almost forgotten. These include one most interesting roll of the fifteenth century with shields blazoned on it that include those of such well-known English families as Montacute and Hastings. There are also a number of shields that have not been identified, including some that are clearly foreign. Among other discoveries is a pedigree of King Henry VI, which traces back, not only to the god Woden, but actually through that god to the mortal Adam. Pedigree could hardly go further. There is also a pedigree which disagrees with this one, and endeavours to trace back the descent of the English Kings to the Kings of Troy. If, indeed, one were to believe these pedigrees of the Lascelles family, many a time have been of a very catholic nature indeed.

Pedigree of Nelson
A pedigree of Nelson is interesting in that it shows the relationship of the Nelson family to the Walpoles, and there is an interest, exhibit, although a later one, being executed in 1791, of the pedigree of the Lascelles family. This was drawn up by John Charles Brookes, Somerset Herald, and traces the ancestry of the family back to the time of Edward II.
